BRITISH BOMBARD GERMAN LINES FOR SIXTH DAY

Berlin and London Both Report Violent and Incessant Gunfire From the Ocean to the Somme—Attacks Made at Various Points.

Austrians Admit Retirement From Kolomea Region—Russians Capture Town Northwest of City.

Germans Capture Position on West Bank of Meuse, but Are Driven Out in Counter Attack.

BERLIN, via London, June 30.—Attacks by the British and French at various places along the western front yesterday and last night were repulsed by German troops, the War Office announced today.

The statement says: "Both yesterday and throughout the night we repulsed British and French attacks at various places, and near Richbourg (southwest of Lille) we delivered an immediate counter attack."

"The enemy continued his futile gas attacks. The intense artillery fire continues without interruption."

"On the left bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) we made progress on Hill 304. On the right bank of the river there was no infantry activity."

"The total number of prisoners taken by us since June 23 and during the repulse of the great French counter attack was 30 officers and 3200 men."

Sixth Day of British Bombardment Finds It Growing Heavier.

LONDON, June 30.—The sixth day of the British bombardment of the German lines from Ypres to the Somme was featured by an increasing number of trench raids. These raids invariably are preceded by heavy shelling of the enemy's trenches, with here and there a concentrated fire by the new trench mortars, the range and general effectiveness of which have been greatly increased.

Yesterday the greatest activity was on the center of the British line, where gas was used with deadly effect in the region of La Bassee.

All the morning newspapers today print lengthy headquarter's accounts of the fighting, which testify to the extravagant use of shells by the British forces. The Daily Mail says:

"The Germans are answering our great bombardment and are well supplied with shells; but they have never before employed artillery on such a scale on so wide a front as we are doing. An extensive, as against an intensive method, is now on trial, and so far has clearly much agitated the enemy, causing him considerable losses and left our infantry free to enter his trenches at night, here, there and everywhere."

That the Russians are slowly, but surely, closing in on Kolomea, Galicia, is shown by both Russian and Austrian official reports. Heavy battles are proceeding east of this important railroad junction, in which the Russians have captured three lines southward. Kolomea is now closely pressed from both the north and east, while to the southwest the Russian occupation of Kimpelung, in Bukovina, opens all routes into Hungary.

Besides announcing the capture of three lines of trenches, the Russian official report of yesterday said 21,000 men and 10,300 men were taken prisoner with a large number of machine guns. The Russian regiment captured an entire heavy battery, consisting of four guns and three teams. It is said 500,000 prisoners have been taken since June 1, not including yesterday's capture.

The Austrian official communication reports that the Austrians have been compelled to retire from part of their front at Kolomea, in Bukovina and southward.

The statement says that Russian attacks over a front of nearly 25 miles in the region east of Kolomea led to stubborn battles and hand-to-hand fighting. In this fighting, after Austrian reserves had been hastily brought up, the superior forces of the Russians were repulsed, but in the evening the Austrians were compelled to retire on a part of the front of Kolomea and southward.

FRENCH LOSE AND RETAKE POSITION

Paris Reports Activity on Whole West Front From Neuport to the Aisne.

PARIS, June 30.—In a terrific attack from the French positions east of Hill 304 in the Verdun sector the Germans captured a fortified work in the first line of the French trenches after the Germans had been heavily buried under a storm of shells. The position was retaken by a brilliant French counter-attack, according to an official statement issued by the war office today.

The Germans also delivered a powerful attack on the French positions in the Verdun sector, but were repulsed. The French counter-attack was successful in retaking the position.

Chapman Killed When on Errand of Mercy

American Aviator Was on Way to Get Orange for Wounded Man When He Entered Last Air Fight.

PARIS, June 30.—It was while on an errand of mercy for a wounded comrade that Corporal Victor Chapman of New York, a member of the Franco-American Aviation Corps, met his death last week.

Capt. Boelke, the most famous of all German aviators, who up to that time had accounted for 15 aeroplanes, sent Chapman to his death. But before he fell the American brought down two German machines.

These details are disclosed in a semi-official statement given out here today, which also announced rewards and promotions for other American aviators for their present accomplishments.

All the members of the American squadron but two have now been decorated or promoted.

Sergeant Clyde Balesley of San Antonio, Tex., wounded in a fight near Verdun and probably crippled for life, decided to gratify the desire of the aviator camp to which Corporal Chapman was attached. The Sergeant asked for an orange, but there was none to be had at the hospital. Corporal Chapman heard of the incident and decided to gratify the desire of his comrade. He obtained a small basket of oranges and set forth in his aeroplane for the hospital.

Enters Into Fight. While on his way he saw several black spots against the sky in the direction of the German lines. He flew toward them and discovered that three French aeroplanes were engaged with four German machines. The New Yorker dashed into the fight. He rose to a great height and swooping down on the Germans put his machine gun into action.

His bullets found the mark and two German machines fell to the earth. Chapman sent them down almost as soon as he entered the combat. Then Capt. Boelke turned on the American and caught him at such an angle that he was able to rake the aeroplane with machine gun fire. One bullet struck a vital spot and Chapman plunked lifeless to the ground. He fell within the German lines.

The semi-official statement contains a tribute to the young American such as is seldom found in matter of fact communications of the kind. It says that a religious service will be held in memory of "this citizen of the United States who, inspired by sentiments of lofty ideal, gave his life for the cause of the allies."

Honors for Americans. For their recent accomplishments rewards and promotions have been given to American aviators as follows: Lieut. William K. Thaw of Pittsburgh, the Cross of the Legion of Honor.

Sergeant Kiffin Rockwell of Atlanta, the military medal.

Sergeant Berthall of Bowling Green, Ky., the military medal.

All the other members of the squadron except two are made sergeants.

BOELKE DESTROYS 19TH AEROPLANE. BERLIN, via London, June 30.—Today's official war bulletin says that on Tuesday evening, near the Thiaumont farm, on the Verdun front, Lieut. Boelke brought down his nineteenth enemy aeroplane.

His bullets found the mark and two German machines fell to the earth. Chapman sent them down almost as soon as he entered the combat. Then Capt. Boelke turned on the American and caught him at such an angle that he was able to rake the aeroplane with machine gun fire. One bullet struck a vital spot and Chapman plunked lifeless to the ground. FIRST REGIMENT STRIKES CAMP, IS READY TO MOVE

Departure for Border Expected Before Tomorrow—Exact Routing Is Withheld.

CHEERS AS TENTS FALL. Men Eagerly Fall to Task of Packing—Await Orders to Entrain.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. NEVADA, Mo., June 30.—Owing to an order issued by the War Department, no detailed information will be given out as to the routing of the First Regiment, which is expected to depart for the Mexican border before tomorrow.

The regiment will move in two sections, the first carrying the first battalion, consisting of A, B, C and D Companies, headquarters staff, and a detachment of the hospital corps. The second section will include the second and third battalions, E, F, G, H and I, K, L and M companies respectively, and the machine gun company. Forty-seven men have been assigned to each section. The first section will carry eight tourist sleepers, one standard Pullman and a horse car for the officers' mounts. An undetermined number of freight cars carrying equipment will complete the train. The second section will include 12 tourist cars, 2 standard Pullmans and equipment cars.

A "kitchen car," a converted baggage car, will be carried in the middle of each train.

The "General," a trumpet call signaling the striking of tents in the regimental encampment, was sounded at 10 a. m. today. Cheers greeted the simultaneous fall of the tents and the soldiers fell to the task of packing the paraphernalia. Mess was served to most of the companies at 10:30 a. m. By 2 o'clock it is expected the regiment will be ready, awaiting only the word to entrain. This order will be given by Maj. Charles Miller, U. S. A., senior mustering officer.

Final orders given by Col. Donnelly regarding entraining arrangements, provide that all canteens be left before the soldiers enter the trains.

Seventh Illinois Regiment and First Infantry Depart for Border. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 30.—The Seventh Regiment of the Illinois National Guard and the staff officers of the First Infantry Brigade, after a sleepless night and without breakfast, departed for the Mexican border early today.

The regiment broke camp yesterday, expecting to entrain at 7 o'clock last night but the first section of their train did not arrive until 6 o'clock this morning. Men and officers dozed in their uniforms on the station platform all night.

Col. E. M. Lewis, chief mustering officer, today issued an order forbidding the Seventh Regiment or any unit leaving the mobilization camp hereafter to take with it the men who had been disqualified by the Federal Army Medical examiners.

This order cost the Seventh 70 enlisted men and five commissioned officers. On the receipt of the order it became generally known about camp for the first time that the First and Second Regiments had taken to the border all the men rejected by the medical examiners in the hope that once these men are at the concentration camp, weavers might be obtained for most of them.

The First Cavalry is scheduled to depart this evening.

Wires Farewell Good Wishes to First Regiment. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 30.—Gov. Major today sent the following telegram to Col. A. B. Donnelly of the First Regiment:

"Having received advice that the First Regiment leaves for Laredo, Tex., today, I wish as the chief executive of the commonwealth to present my compliments to you and the regiment. I have reviewed it many times, and in officers and men there are none better in the national guard of any State in the Republic. Both officers and men carry with them my best wishes and prayers. May conflict in honor be avoided. Should you be called into action, however, I know the regiment will sustain the reputation of the martial heroes of Missouri. You have rendered the State a great service in the national guard and now have become soldiers of the republic. May I have the good fortune at a later day to welcome all back to Missouri, and that without the loss of a man."

YUKON TO VOTE ON LIQUOR. Territorial Legislature Passes Bill Providing for Referendum Election. DAWSON, Y. T., June 30.—Workers for prohibition here are celebrating the passage yesterday by the Yukon Territorial Legislature of a bill seeking a referendum election on the question of prohibition in Yukon Territory, to be held not later than September 1 next.

If adopted by the voters, prohibition will become effective July 1, 1917. The bill prohibits the manufacture and sale of intoxicants of all kinds and makes no provision for importation for personal consumption. Only intoxicants for medicinal and mechanical purposes are permitted to enter the territory under its provisions.

Only Congressman to Give Up Seat to Join His Regiment

Col. Tilson commands a Connecticut regiment. Two other members of Congress are national guard officers, one of them being Senator Wadsworth of New York, but they have elected to resign their guard commissions. The Committee on Membership of the House has given an opinion that if a member leaves his post to join the army, his seat in Congress becomes vacant by that act.

FOUR VILLA MEN IN COLUMBUS RAID HANGED AT DEMING

Men Are Executed in Pairs—One Smokes a Cigarette as Noose Is Being Adjusted. DEMING, N. M., June 30.—Four Villa followers who took part in the Columbus raid here, were executed by hanging in the county jail here today. The men were executed in pairs. Ensiervo Renteria and Taurino Garcia were placed on the scaffold first. They were not pronounced dead until 20 minutes after the drop. Jose Rangel and Juan Castillo were next. Their necks were broken and death was almost instantaneous.

The four men were calm. Rangel smoked a cigarette as the noose was adjusted. None would say anything except Garcia, who exclaimed as he was led to the execution: "I hope God will forgive my enemies."

This completes the disposition of the cases of Columbus raiders.

TAFT IS LUNCHEON GUEST AT HUGHES SUMMER HOME

Nominee Accompanies Former President to Train When He Departs and Plays Game of Golf. BRIDGEHAMPTON, N. Y., June 30.—Former President Taft was the luncheon guest today of Charles E. Hughes at Tremden, the nominee's temporary summer home here. They discussed the political situation.

Taft came from Garden City near here. He was met at the station by Maj. Frederick M. Cressett and on his departure was accompanied to the station by the nominee himself. Hughes today played his first game of golf since the Chicago convention.

Hughes returned here last night to prepare his speech of acceptance and to rest after the busy four days he spent in New York. He will go for long walks, a favorite pastime denied him since his nomination, play a little golf and work leisurely on his speech.

It is unlikely that he will accept any of the invitations he has received to make Fourth of July addresses.

1100 JOIN ARMY IN WEEK

Recruiting of Regulars Stimulated by Mexican Crisis. WASHINGTON, June 30.—The Mexican crisis has served as a stimulus for regular army recruiting as well as that for the national guard. More than 1100 men were accepted during the last week, establishing a new record for the recruiting service now operating at full capacity under the authority granted months ago to bring the regulars up to war strength.

CARRANZA SAID TO INTEND TO STAND BY ORDER TO TREVINO

Private Advices From Mexico City Say U. S. Forces Will Be Attacked if They Move Except to North.

U. S. BECOMING IMPATIENT AT CARRANZA'S DELAY

Lansing Takes Up Question With Arredondo Who Renews Complaints of Mistreatment of Mexicans—Faction of Mexican Cabinet Said to Be Urging Defiant Answer.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Private advices reaching Washington from a reliable source in Mexico City today said Gen. Carranza and his advisers had determined to stand by orders to Gen. Trevino to attack American troops in Mexico, moving in any direction except toward the border and that no way was seen to avoid a break with the United States.

When President Wilson met his Cabinet today just before departing for New York to deliver an address the unfavorable private reports had not reached him and there were virtually no new developments to be considered. Military preparations are being rushed, but diplomatically there is nothing to be done until Carranza's reply is received or it becomes apparent that he will not respond within a reasonable time.

U. S. Impatient at Delay. Eliseo Arredondo, the Mexican ambassador designate, called on Secretary Lansing early in the day, to communicate formally the information that his Government had ordered the release of the American troops captured at Carrizal. A brief talk followed, during which Mr. Lansing took occasion to make it plain that the Washington Government expected an early reply to its note forwarded to Mexico City last Sunday. The ambassador was impressed with the fact that the State Department was growing impatient at the delay.

All members of the Cabinet agreed after the meeting that both the situation and the policy of the United States were unchanged as a result of recent developments.

The release of the captured troops has not relieved the critical diplomatic situation now existing. Several reports from Special Agent Rodgers referring to routine matters did not mention the Mexican note. He has had no light to shed on the question of the alleged mistreatment of Mexicans on the American side of the border, and asked that steps be taken to prevent further trouble of this sort.

Should the Mexican reply follow the line indicated and be in defiance of the United States, President Wilson probably would lay the whole matter before Congress immediately.

A faction of the Mexican Cabinet, it is reported, is urging a defiant attitude and wants to include in the reply to the American request for a statement of intentions a new demand for immediate withdrawal of all United States troops now on Mexican soil.

Arredondo Renews Complaints. Arredondo took up with Secretary Lansing again the question of the alleged mistreatment of Mexicans on the American side of the border, and asked that steps be taken to prevent further trouble of this sort.

On returning to the embassy he made public a message from Mexico City saying that, although the State Department had telegraphed Special Agent Rodgers to warn all Americans to leave Mexico at once or the United States Government would not be responsible for the consequences, actually fewer than 300 had left Mexico City, and not more than 200 left the surrounding country.

The greater majority of Americans in Mexico City, said the dispatch, "have elected to remain, as they have been in Mexico throughout all the trouble in the past five years, and no one of them who has not gone out of his way to invite trouble has ever been molested. The Mexican Government has given positive guarantees for the protection of the lives and property of Americans in the States of Tabasco and Guasajuato whenever such Americans express a desire to remain, and unquestionably it will do so in all other portions of the republic."

In conclusion the message said: "Since the beginning of international difficulties no disposition has ever been exhibited here, at any time, to molest any American on account of his nationality, although those who have sought trouble usually have been accommodated."

Official reports to the State Department from Mexico City, however, are more guarded. The State Department is growing impatient at the delay.

News Concerning Troop Movements to Be Suppressed

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The State Department today announced that it had ordered the suppression of all news concerning troop movements.

The order follows: "In view of the fact that general knowledge of troop movements en route to the Texas border or in Texas might result in some malicious act that might seriously hamper these movements and also might result in unnecessary loss of life among troops it is directed that all concerned be instructed to the effect that no information as to the movements of troops is to be given to representatives of the press or any individuals other than the officials of the railroads concerned or the representatives of the American Railway Association, located at the various department headquarters and mobilization and concentration points."

The President called out the national guard June 18, but the news of the Mexican expedition from Mexico was sent to Gen. Carranza June 20 and the Carrizal incident occurred June 21, resulting in the demand for the release of prisoners and property taken and for a statement from Gen. Carranza as to his future intentions. The prisoners taken at Carrizal reached El Paso yesterday.

Secretary Lansing is determined to get a clear statement of intentions on which action by the United States can be founded.

The attitude of the Government on the question of mediation, officially outlined yesterday, is that arbitration is wholly out of the question; that the United States has nothing to arbitrate. If Carranza should withdraw his hostile orders, however, and then propose that an attempt be made to formulate, through mediators, an agreement of some sort for joint operations in protecting the border, it might receive consideration.

The right to pursue raiders into Mexico will be maintained and exercised without interruption, and if the border can be properly protected only by temporary military occupation of Mexican territory adjacent to the line that will be the course pursued.

Pershing to Make Full Report. Arredondo has made public a copy of the statement attributed to Gen. Spillbury, interpreter for Capt. Boyd, and one of the prisoners turned over at El Paso to the American military authorities. It blames the Americans for the clash.

Final decision by Washington officials, as to the responsibility for the fighting cannot be reached until a complete report from Gen. Pershing is available. He is gathering from survivors all information they have as to what happened and will submit a full report to Secretary Baker, who in turn will transmit it to the State Department for consideration.

It became known today that representations were forwarded to Gen. Carranza several days ago in regard to the seizure by Mexican officials of a vast quantity of American property in Mexico since the departure of many Americans for the North. The protest was similar to those submitted later to Secretary Lansing by Arredondo in regard to the border embargo, alleged ill treatment of Mexicans in the United States, and other matters. The protest was to the American representations and none had been made to Arredondo. One of Arredondo's notes asked punishment.

U. S. Accused of Haughtiness in Alleged Carranza Statement

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Officials read with interest today press dispatches from Mexico City saying a statement had been issued by the Department of Foreign Relations in Mexico City accusing the American State Department of sending discourteous and haughty notes to the Mexican Government, and alleging that many Mexicans have been murdered on American soil. The alleged statement says:

"It seems strange that the Department of State should show surprise and disappointment for the tone and character of the note of the 22nd of May, which it calls discourteous, when the same Department of State has sent to the Constitutional Government not one, but many notes not only discourteous, but also haughty, to say the least."

"During the same period to which the notes allude, 160 Mexicans have been murdered in United States territory by American civilians and the same Government authorities have also participated, although the two countries were at peace and in none of those cases, although representations have been made to the Department of State through our Minister at Washington, have the guilty ever been brought to justice or punished."

"The Government of Mexico cannot be held responsible for those acts which have taken place in foreign territory and which could be charged to the nationals of another country. Besides, the American Government was well aware of all these facts before recognizing the Constitutional Government, and it now appears irrelevant or out of place to bring these facts forward as a basis for an unjustified negative to withdraw the American troops from our territory."

"It is not true that the Mexican Government, or its authorities had protected or covered the criminals who are claimed to have committed these depredations and crimes in territory of the United States. This can never be proved by the American Government."

"The Constitutional Government has done all in its power and has gone beyond all efforts to protect the foreigners, who are to be blamed to a great extent for persisting in remaining in places where conditions were not normal, although its own government, on various occasions, has asked them not to remain there."

"If our own citizens had to suffer a great deal on account of actual conditions, it is not just that foreigners should pretend and expect to be immune."

"The chief or manager who lost his life in the calamity at Santa Yabel, and who was in charge of the Americans—his name was Charles Watson—persisted in making the conditions more dangerous. Gen. Jacinto B. Trevino, military commander of the State of Chihuahua, advised him of the danger and risk that he and his fellow companions were running in traveling through a dangerous area. Watson did not want to wait until an escort could be furnished for their train, and as he was a man very bad temper, his own temperament imposed his authority and possessing a very bad temper, his own temperament carried him to his doom together with the rest of his companions."

American Note on Withdrawal to Be Made Public in Mexico Today

MEXICO CITY, June 30.—Announcement has been made at the foreign office that President Wilson's recent note, answering the communication of Gen. Carranza demanding the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico, would be published today.

Mexican Customs Employee Reported Killed by U. S. Soldiers

EL PASO, June 30.—A Mexican line rider belonging to the Carranza customs service was shot and killed last night by a squad of American soldiers who fired across the Rio Grande into Mexican territory near Yaleta, 12 miles east of El Paso, according to a report received by Gen. Gonzales in Juarez today.

Mexican officials claimed that the guard, Juan Horena, was riding with another customs guard along the Mexican side of the river in the performance of his duty when the Americans opened fire without warning. The story, as told by the survivors placed the number of Americans at eight. Considerable indignation was expressed in Juarez over the affair and Gen. Gonzales sent a complaint to Gen. Bell, who said he would detail officers to make investigation. Pending receipt of their report he would not discuss the incident.

CHICAGO, June 30.—The Santa Fe Railway system will pay death benefits to kinmen of all employees who die after being in the service two or more years. It is announced by President Ripley.

Payments will be equal to 5 per cent of the employee's last 12 months' salary, multiplied by the number of years of continuous service, with a minimum of $250 and a maximum of one year's salary, not exceeding $8000.

The president stated that the plan would be tried out for two years, but expressed hope that the conditions may enable the company to continue it in effect for the future.

SOLDIER TAKES WIFE ALONG

CAMP HARRISON, MACON, Ga., June 30.—Private P. R. Simmons of F Company found it so hard to leave his girl behind when he left with his company for the front, that he married her, bobbed her hair, gave her a private's uniform and smuggled her on the troop train.

Mrs. Simmons objected tearfully when discovered by officers and forced to leave the train at Hapville.

"I want to go to the front with my husband," she cried.

Laredo, Post of St. Louis Militia, Noted for Heat

Occasionally a Breeze From the Gulf Arrives in Town but It Is More Torrid Than the Sun When It Reaches the Border.

By CLAIR KENAMORE.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

EL PASO, Tex., June 29.—The Missouri militia due shortly at the border has some widening experience before it. The boys from back home will ride through a pleasant summer land down the fertile valleys of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas until they will immediately come to know as "San Antonio."

There they will see the three sheet posters headed "Remember the Alamo" which appeal for recruits for a summer training camp. They will admire the pretty girls who stand before them in the Alamo's glory. Then after a while they will begin to remark on the heat. A little later they will go out to Fort Sam Houston, pet the deer in the park and wonder what is going on behind the gray walls which shelter Gen. Pershing's column. The same was true of the streets in the middle of the city. They will be repaved by street car conductors for sitting in the "Jim Crow" seats. Laredo Famous for Heat

The one thing for which Laredo is especially famous, is the heat. The hot houses lie dead in the sun. A wind blows up from the Gulf of Mexico, a pleasant wind which comes from salt water but it has lost the tang of the sea before it reaches the county seat.

NEVADA, Mo., June 30.—Now that formal orders to move have been received by the First Regiment the stage of inactive expectancy has passed and the company streets last night were the scene of bustle and activity incident to the packing up of equipment for the regiment's departure today. Buckles were polished, haversacks made ready and the finishing touches put on everything.

The regiment began to load its equipment yesterday morning. The men yesterday received the news that the regiment was on the eve of departure with cheers.

All obsolete and unserviceable equipment was turned in to the division yesterday afternoon. All men of the First Regiment and all units will receive a vaccination of smallpox serum before leaving the encampment by order of Maj. M. Shockley, U. S. Army, mustering officer.

Physicians yesterday began vaccinating the men of the First Regiment and all officers of the regiment were inoculated with typhoid prophylaxis.

Capt. Jesse E. Robinson of G Company was disqualified on the physical examination yesterday owing to a temporary illness. He will be re-examined later. Capt. Robinson was assigned to the Casual Detachment, Lieut. W. H. Spencer taking command of the company.

Col. George K. Hunter, Inspector-General of the Central Department, arrived at camp today to inspect the Missouri brigade. He said its condition compared favorably to the Illinois guard, just inspected by him.

Fourth Regiment Being Examined.

Maj. Miller Government mustering officer, said last night that the next unit to go would depend upon how quickly the physical examinations were completed. The Fourth Regiment from Northern Missouri, is being examined. Maj. Miller declined to say whether it would be the next to move.

The cooks of the First Regiment are no slovens when it comes to preparing good, wholesome, palatable dishes. The army cook who would qualify as an expert must be able to take a chunk of beef and a few vegetables and in a comparatively short time turn out a tasty stew or palatable roast.

Among the favorite dishes of First Regiment guardsmen are "slumgullion," a combination of meat, potatoes and vegetables; "slum with the overcoat," the same dish with a top crust and "three in one" pot pie, made of meat potatoes and bread. Among the desserts the favorite is "plum duff," which is practically bread pudding with prunes. The main standby of the army cook, though, is the onion. This motto is "When in doubt, put in an onion." It is the national dietary article of the army.

Here are sample menus showing the variety of the food served from army kitchens: Breakfast—Bacon, pork and beans; coffee. Dinner—Beef potatoes, corn, bread, butter, coffee and pie or pudding. Supper—Cold meat, potatoes, beans, onions and coffee or iced tea.

Field rations for five days will be issued to the men of the First Regiment before they entrain for the border today. They will consist of canned pork and beans, hard tack and coffee. A main standby of the army cook, though, is the onion. This motto is "When in doubt, put in an onion." It is the national dietary article of the army.

Three soldiers are assigned to each sleeping car, two in the lower berth, one in the upper. The men will take turns sleeping in the upper berth. Each company will appoint a detail of "kitchen police" whose duty it will be to convey food at mess time from the kitchen car to the different companies. The officers in standard Pullmans. This is in contrast to the Eastern troops now on the way to the border, which are making their long journey in day coaches.

Each company's food allowance will be put into a large, clean dshpan. The main standby of the army cook, though, is the onion. This motto is "When in doubt, put in an onion." It is the national dietary article of the army.

Gen. Clark Mustered In.

Brig-Gen. Harvey C. Clark, commanding the First Regiment, was mustered yesterday by Maj. Charles Miller. Gen. Clark passed the physical examination also, awaiting his turn in the Field Hospital with the privates.

Three sections of the Illinois National Guard and one section of the Seventh New York Infantry passed through Nevada late yesterday afternoon on the way to the border.

Harry Griswold and Miss Pearl Lowe, both of Independence, Mo., were married last night by a Justice of the Peace in Nevada. Griswold, who is a private in C Battery, of Independence, Miss Lowe is 25 years old.

Nathan Hall, acting Mayor of St. Louis, Wednesday wired Col. Donnelly asking that he specify the needs of the First Regiment in regard to automobile equipment. Col. Donnelly replied yesterday, asking for three motor trucks and motorcycles, one motor ambulance and one runabout.

U. S. Acts Viewed as Violation of Sovereignty of Mexico No Permission for Villa Chase

By STERLING E. EDMUNDS.

Lecturer on International Law, St. Louis University Law School.

HERE is much to be said in defense of the sending of United States troops into Mexico, but the fact remains, that from the Mexican viewpoint it constitutes a violation of that State's sovereignty and an assault upon its dignity.

The exclusive character of sovereignty has now been more clearly expounded, nor more widely quoted in text books, than in the famous decision of Chief Justice Marshall of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of the schooner "Exchange" vs. McPaddon, 7 Cranch 116, decided in 1812.

Rights of Jurisdiction.

This was a case in which an American citizen attempted, as a previous owner, to libel a public armed vessel of the French Government which he put into port at Philadelphia. In an exhaustive discussion, Chief Justice Marshall said:

"The jurisdiction of a nation within its own territory is necessarily exclusive and absolute. It is susceptible of no limitation by other States in respect to territory."

"All exceptions therefore to the full and complete power of a nation within its own territories must be traced up to the consent of the nation itself. They can flow from no other legitimate source."

Relaxation in Practice.

After stating this as a fundamental principle of the law of nations, he adds: "The world being composed of distinct sovereignties possessing equal rights and equal independence, whose mutual benefit is promoted by intercourse with each other, and by an interchange of those good offices which humanity dictates and its wants require, all sovereigns have consented to a relaxation in practice in cases under certain peculiar circumstances of that absolute and complete jurisdiction with which, in their respective territories, which sovereignty confers."

Chief Justice Marshall then cites three exceptional instances in which, from common interest in times of peace, every sovereign is understood to waive the exercise of a part of that complete, exclusive, territorial jurisdiction which is the attribute of sovereignty.

The first of these is the exemption customarily extended to the person of a sovereign from arrest or detention within a foreign territory.

The second is the immunity which all civilized nations accord to diplomatic agents who are supposed to represent the person of their sovereign.

The third is that in which a state is understood to waive a portion of its territorial jurisdiction where it allows the troops of a foreign state to pass through its dominions.

Passage of Troops.

The Chief Justice emphatically points out that the immunities attaching to such a military force in a foreign state can only flow from an express grant of the right of passage. Then he asks: "But if, without such express permit an army should be led through the territories of a foreign Prince, might the jurisdiction of the territory be rightfully exercised over the individuals composing this army?"

Then he answers: "Without doubt a military force can never gain immunities of any other description than those which may give by entering a foreign territory against the will of its sovereign."

"It is obvious that the passage of an army through a foreign territory will probably be at all times inconvenient and injurious and would even be immediately dangerous to the sovereign through whose dominion it passed. Such a practice would break down some of the most decisive distinctions between peace and war, and would reduce a nation to the necessity of resisting by war an act not absolutely hostile to its character or of exposing itself to the stratagems and frauds of a Power whose integrity might be doubted and who might enter the country under deceitful pretexts. It is for reasons like these that the general license to foreigners (civilians) to enter the dominions of a friendly power is never understood to extend to a military force, and an army thrown from his horse on the parade ground in front of Gen. Clark's headquarters. He was uninjured. Graves is Captain of L Company, Second Regiment.

Refuse to Re-Enlist Stripped.

A private in the Booneville company of the Third Regiment, whose enlistment expired yesterday, was handled roughly by members of the company last night because he refused to re-enlist.

He is said to have a sick wife and three children. He was stripped, painted with iodine and paraded down the company street. Men of other companies interfered and officers stopped the mistreatment. Among the first to go to his aid were members of A Battery of St. Louis.

AEROPLANE REPAIRS TO BORDER

St. Louis Firm Sends Three Propellers to Columbus, N. M.

Three aeroplane propellers costing $250 each are being shipped today, under rush orders from the Government, to Columbus, N. M., by the Excelsior Propeller Co., of 2841 Abner place. These propellers, according to M. J. Stone, head of the company, will be used to repair disabled army aeroplanes at Columbus.

Stone said he obtained the order as a result of reading in the Post-Dispatch last week that several army aeroplanes were disabled at Columbus with broken propellers. He wrote the War Department Friday and received a telegraph order Friday to rush the propellers.

SIX BATTERIES OF FIELD ARTILLERY GO THROUGH CITY

Massachusetts Contingent of 1400 Men Completes Half of Journey to Border.

The six batteries of the Massachusetts Field Artillery, each on a special train, passed through the North St. Louis yards at Carrie avenue, between 4 and 10 o'clock this morning.

The 100 men of the batteries had been on the road 48 hours in day coaches since leaving Framingham, Mass. Wednesday morning, and they had another 48 hours before them on the journey to El Paso, via Kansas City. They had to sleep in cramped positions, had little opportunity for washing, but they were cheerful and the few St. Louisans who crossed the railroad tracks to enter the yards and view the trains were warmly greeted.

Cheer Opportunity to Bathe.

The men applauded the announcement, made to them by their officers, that their trains, which went west on the Rock Island, would stop near Argyle, Mo., 121 miles west of St. Louis long enough for everyone to bathe in Maries creek.

B Battery of Worcester was the first to pass through. The later trains were those of A Battery of Boston, C of Lawrence, carrying Col. J. H. Sherburne and the staff officers, and D, E and F of Salem.

Chalk artists were active in lettering the sides of the coaches, and some of the legends written on the cars were: "We will not come back till there is peace." "Let's go, boys." "We mean business." "We would rather fight than eat." "Villa or bust." There were several other references to Villa, and to Carranza's tactical foliage.

Members of the batteries received copies of the New Testament and gospel leaflets, distributed to them by the Rev. Harris H. Gregg, pastor of the Washington-Compton Presbyterian Church, and two assistants. Dr. Gregg advised the men to write their names in the Testaments, and keep them in their pockets, to serve as a means of identification "if anything should happen to you."

Some of the Brooklyn infantrymen to whom Dr. Gregg gave Testaments yesterday, thanked him for them, but said later that they wished someone, instead of giving them more Bibles, would sell them some cigarettes. Their stopping places are such that they are unable to keep supplied with the "making."

Before the Massachusetts batteries began coming, the last section of the Fourteenth New York Infantry of Brooklyn passed through. This was before daylight, and only a short stop was made here. Several trains also passed through the East Side yards, transferring at Dupu Junction from Eastern lines to the Illinois division of the Iron Mountain.

Emergency Mail Service Formed.

An emergency mail service, for the benefit of soldiers passing through St. Louis, has been established by Postmaster Selph at the request of the Business Men's League. Collections of mail are made from each train on its arrival, by uniformed employees of the postoffice.

Arrangements have been made by which the office is notified in advance of each train's arrival.

Members of some of the first commands passing through the yards called attention to the need for mail facilities, saying that, as they stopped only in railroad yards, and were not permitted to leave their coaches, they could not even mail the letters and cards they had written.

MARION LAMBERT DIED IN VIEW OF RAILWAY STATION

Surveyor's Maps Introduced at Orpet Trial to Discount Deliberate Murder Theory.

HAD ACCESS TO POISON

High School Instructor Says Girl
Knew Where He Had Chemical Stores.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 30.—Gale M. Brooks, a civil engineer who said he had surveyed and mapped Helm's Woods and vicinity, took the stand for the defense today at the trial of Will H. Orpet, charged with the murder of Marion Lambert.

Brooks' map was introduced and he explained it at some length. One of the purposes of it was to show that Orpet and Marion Lambert could have been seen in the woods from the interurban station and that for that reason the woods would never have been selected for a deliberately planned murder.

Had Access to Laboratory.
A three-day cross-examination of Orpet, having been concluded yesterday afternoon, the defense immediately set about to show that the Lake Forest high school girl killed herself by taking potassium cyanide. Two witnesses were heard before adjournment on the point of the availability of the poison to her.

These witnesses, John B. Vergoe, a special student at the Deerfield High School which was attended by Marion, and E. L. Trague, the instructor in chemistry, testified that the cyanide was available in liquid form in the chemistry laboratory and in crystal form in the stock room adjoining.

The essentials of their testimony showed that Marion entered the laboratory on Tuesday, Feb. 8, the day before her death at about 10:30 in the forenoon, and appeared to be at work, although she was not supposed to be there, and there was a rule forbidding the use of the room except at stated periods. Vergoe, taking a special course, was an exception and used the room practically at will. When he came into the room he found Marion there. Nothing in her conduct aroused any suspicion in his mind.

The instructor, however, remarked at the inference of his rule by Marion, but his reprimand was slight, consisting in an order for both Vergoe and Marion "to make themselves scarce" as soon as they could.

Poisons in Room.
The testimony also showed that that student was provided with a bottle and mortar for the pulverizing of solids and other chemical laboratory work. The student in whom a full complement of acids, salts and other laboratory equipment was kept, and which served also as the instructor's private laboratory, adjoining the classroom. There was a lock on the door, but it was never secured, owing to a defect in the mechanism. A box containing tubes of potassium cyanide was on a low shelf, the third article on it from the door, according to Trague. On a classroom shelf plainly marked, was a bottle containing the poison in solution. The instructor did not recall that either had been used in class work, and expressed the opinion that lump cyanide was for use in photography.

Cross-examination brought from the instructor the fact that the day after Marion's death he examined the pestle and mortar used by her for traces of cyanide, but found none, but instead found traces of Marion's last experiment with another chemical. Redirection examination adduced that the students were supposed to clean the utensils, thoroughly after each experiment.

On chemistry testimony largely in the evidence of the defense. A chapter on cyanide of potassium was to have been Marion's next lesson, Trague testified. The first paragraph of the lesson which referred to the cyanide as one of the most deadly poisons known, was read to the jury. The instructor said it was his custom to point out the essentials of a lesson on assigning it, and that this case was no exception.

Had Book Under Arm.
Josephine Davis, early in the case testified that she saw Marion's night before her death in Helm's Woods she had the book open before her at about 8 o'clock when Orpet, having arrived at Lake Forest on his secret trip from Madison, called her to the telephone and arranged for the tryst next morning. This book, too, was one of the two which was clutched under her left arm when her body was found in the snow on Feb. 10, where it had lain for nearly 24 hours.

The closing hours of the inquisition of the defendant involved many repetitions, against which the defense objected almost every minute. His last questions to which answers were allowed involved his return to Madison at 8 p. m. on the day of Marion's death. In kindly tone and with considerable cunning, Attorney Joslyn sought to trap the witness into an admission that he did not really know that Marion was dead when he left her in the snow. To this end he asked a number of innocently contrived questions to develop at what hour on the succeeding day the defendant saw the Chicago newspapers. It developed, however, that although Orpet was taking a course in journalism, no newspaper was delivered at his lodgings, and he had no recollection of seeing a newspaper until after the noon. He was not clear on the subject and did not know at what hour Chicago newspapers reached Madison.

AUGUST J. FERTIG WANTED FOR GIVING TWO BAD CHECKS

Man Who Said He Intended to Raise German - American Regiment Is Missing.

The police department today asked the police of Kansas City, Omaha and Denver to look out for August J. Fertig, who a few days ago announced that he would organize a German-American regiment of volunteers for Mexican service and then left the city after giving R. L. Meyer, manager of the Buckingham Annex, two checks that have since been returned marked "insufficient funds."

Fertig had been stopping at the Buckingham Annex since May 1. He paid his bills by checks on the German Savings Institution and all but the last two checks were honored. Manager Meyer said. One of the returned checks is for $30, made June 11, for which Meyer advanced cash, and the other is for $21, dated June 19, in payment of a board bill. Meyer told the police he learned Fertig had only $1 in his credit in the bank.

According to Meyer, Fertig said when he gave the last check that he was going to leave the city and business and would return in a few days. Meyer has heard nothing from him since, and his stenographer, Miss Yatkeman, of 2611 Thomas street, who claims a week's salary is due her, says she has heard nothing from him.

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL ARRESTED

C. H. Slater, of 190 West Swen avenue, Webster Groves, principal of the Grover Cleveland High School, and E. J. Burgard, of 7132 Berlin avenue, an attorney, yesterday were arrested by a County Deputy Sheriff on a charge of speeding their automobile on Pennsylvania.

The Deputy Sheriff followed the two cars three miles on a motor cycle before catching up with them. Slater said he was trying to get ahead of Burgard and avoid the latter's dust. He said that he wished to go on his vacation soon, so taken before a Webster Groves Justice of the Peace and his case dismissed after payment of costs. Burgard will be tried July 5.

IOWA SALOONS TO STAY CLOSED

DES MOINES, Io., June 30.—The dual repeal law, which closed saloons in Iowa Jan. 1, is valid and constitutional, according to a decision of the Iowa State Supreme Court in affirming the case of the State vs. John Hill, appellant. The action was begun in Daventry by three saloon-keepers to test the new law.

DR. VORDICK SAYS "TOODLES" UPSET FAMILY PEACE

In Divorce Trial He Declares
His Wife Kissed Her Pet Dog.

The divorce suit of Mrs. Alinda B. Vordick, 55 years old, of the Arthur Hotel, Berlin avenue and Skinker road, against Dr. August H. Vordick, 57 years old, of 661 Berlin avenue, University City, whose marital unhappiness was largely due to a pet dog, "Toodles," was on trial at Clayton yesterday and today.

Shortly after their marriage in 1913, Mrs. Vordick testified yesterday, her husband said to her wife, "Toodles, a woman that would kiss a dog, just because 'Toodles' jumped up into her lap, she denied that she kissed the dog, but Dr. Vordick today testified that she did kiss the dog.

Both had been widowed when they met in 1913, returning by steamer from the Orient. They separated March 7 last. Mrs. Vordick admitted asking for a mercantile agency's report on Dr. Vordick before she married.

Dr. Vordick's testimony this morning kept the court room in an uproar. When asked how his wife treated him, he turned to the Judge and exclaimed: "By jiminy! such a flirt—always looking back. Why, Judge, she would flirt with all the young men in the neighborhood until I was ashamed of her." "Who did the housework?" he was asked.

"Why, I did, I even had to mop the floors. And she never cooked a meal. I had nothing but lunches, lunches, for breakfast, dinner and supper. I could eat it all in five minutes."

His greatest humiliation came, he said, when he killed "Toodles." He and his wife were going on a trip, but they could not find anyone who would keep "Toodles." So they decided to kill him. Dr. Vordick said he never killed anything, not even a chicken, but he was willing to start on the dog. He had to give eight hypodermic injections, he said. And then, he said, his wife made him dig a grave and bury the dog.

He said a quarrel over "Toodles" also caused him to be arrested once. At that time, Justice of the Peace Ladd at University City advised him and his wife to kill the dog and live in peace.

FAUST'S CAFE PROBABLY WILL CLOSE TONIGHT

Employees Bid Goodby to Regular Customers of Famous Restaurant.

SIGN ON THE BAR

Manager Still Hopes Something
Will Turn Up at Last Hour.

This probably is the last day on which the famous Tony Faust restaurant at Broadway and Elm street will be open. Those who went there for luncheon today were told by waiters, bartenders, busboys and other employees that the doors would not be opened tomorrow.

The prospect of closing was regarded as a certainty by these employees, some of whom have been there for many years. Bartenders were bidding good-by to their regular customers and telling them where they could be found in their new jobs at downtown bars tomorrow. Waiters also told customers where they would be working tomorrow.

Over the historic Faust bar there was a sign which read, "Au revoir, but not good-by." Under this was a line indicating that Faust employees later would be found at the restaurant which will be built by August A. Busch in South St. Louis.

Henry C. Dietz, president of the Dietz Catering Co., the present owner of Faust's, was still waiting for something to turn up, despite the fact that a plan to have the restaurant turned into a club, through subscriptions of initiation fees and dues by the regular customers had failed.

"I cannot run the place any longer," said Dietz. Pointing to the crowded tables, he added: "See what a business we are doing now. But it is only for two or three hours around lunch time. After 5 o'clock the place is dead. Unless something happens at the eleventh hour I must close tonight."

"Of course there is a chance that someone will be willing to advance the money to keep the place going. My list must be renewed next week. I will not renew it unless I have financial aid. I cannot definitely announce that the restaurant will be closed tonight. Something may happen at the eleventh hour to relieve the situation."

300 EMPLOYEES OF CLOTHING FACTORY GO OUT ON STRIKE

Men and Women Quit Work When Reinstatement Is Refused for Two Workers Who Were Discharged.

The factory employees of the Loth-Hoffman Clothing Co., 1138 Washington avenue, numbering nearly 300 and about equally divided between men and women, walked out at 9 o'clock this morning.

The walkout came after the company had refused to reinstate two men who were discharged for being members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

Most of the employees of the company are members of the Amalgamated, according to two organizers of that body, Frank Roebuck and Sam Rissman. The company has objected to this organization, although it was willing that its workers should be members of local 105 of the United Garment Workers, to which some of them belong.

Following the walkout, the men and women went to the Fraternal building, Eleventh street and Franklin avenue, where a meeting was held.

TWO NEW YORK MILITIAMEN, BATHING IN GASCONADE, VANISH

Soldiers Are Believed to Have Drowned Although Rafter's Tell of Seeing Men Nude Later.

ROLLA, Mo., June 30.—When bathing in the Gasconade River yesterday afternoon two men belonging to C Company, 14th regiment of Brooklyn, either were drowned in the river or escaped. The troops detained at Jerome and bathed in the river and when they were called to get within seeing distance. Hundreds of small boats were outlined with electric lights, while big barges were decorated and lighted and carried musicians and crews in fancy costumes.

Coroner Light, with Charles F. Roach, deputy Game and Fish Commissioner, are at Jerome to dynamite the river in an effort to raise the bodies. The story of some rafters that two nude men had been seen on the river bank several miles below Jerome is being investigated.

BISHOP QUAYLE SELECTS HOME

He will spend the remainder of the summer in attending conferences and other gatherings.

$850,000 VALUE OF ESTATE LEFT BY KITCHENER

Will of Secretary of War Who Lost Life on Cruiser Hampshire Is Filed.

LONDON, June 30.—The will of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, the British Secretary of War who lost his life while commanding the cruiser Hampshire off the Orkneys, June 5, was admitted to probate today.

It shows that he left an estate valued at £171,420 sterling (approximately $850,000).

The largest bequests were the sum of £20,000 to his nephew, Henry Hamilton Kitchener, and the Broome Park estate and all lands in Kent County to his nephew, Commander Henry Franklin Chevallier Kitchener of the Royal Navy, a son of the late Earl.

Smaller bequests to relatives and friends, including £200 each to several officers who served on Lord Kitchener's personal staff.

To Col. Oswald A. G. Fitzgerald, Lord Kitchener's personal military secretary, who was drowned with the Field Marshal, was willed all Kitchener's lands in British East Africa, amounting to about 6000 acres, with plantations, etc.

Swords of honor, plate and other gifts from public bodies are devoted as heirlooms in settled estates. The will was dated Nov. 2, 1914.

Perhaps none outside his immediate family was more grief-stricken at the news of Lord Kitchener's tragic death than Queen Alexandra. The attentiveness of the soldier to the Queen-Mother had long been notable, and there was a very strong bond of sympathy between these two, undoubtedly two of the loneliest figures prominent in contemporary London.

Indeed, there was something pathetic in the lonely bachelorhood of the War Secretary, who occasionally to his intimates dropped remarks bearing on his lack of home and near relations. Not a week passed but he was in a little house with his wife, where he had not paid a visit to Marlborough House, where he would remain for long visits with Queen Alexandra, and come away with a long list of those combats of whom her friends had made special inquiries. However pressing the demands of the campaign on the war front, he would always return within a few days with the desired information.

Dinner Parties to Men Only.
At York House, St. James' Palace, he gave a number of dinner parties to men only, the military element being not always conspicuous at these. He liked doctors, but cared nothing for actors or musicians. Several of the higher clergy in London enjoyed his friendship and hospitality.

Lord Kitchener was personally well liked by his subordinates, and his close was a good night's sleep. "The more expensive curiosity shops in London. He would bargain over purchases, but did not possess the commercial sense, and in the end would always pay a good price, usually on his own initiative. The dealer generally received the goods the day after delivery, the check being quite often post-dated a month or two.

"AD" MEN CLOSE PHILADELPHIA

President's Address Feature of Last Day, Followed by Marine Page.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 30.—Members of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, whose successful convention was closed here yesterday with an address by President William C. Sullivan, a former mayor of Philadelphia, departed for Atlantic City this morning. The majority went by train, but several hundred took part in an automobile reliability run to the shore.

The Executive Committee and the officers of the association met at the Bellevue-Stratford here today to wind up the convention's business, and make plans for next year's session in St. Louis.

The marine pageant last night was a beautiful spectacle. Although it was two hours late in starting, park guards estimated that 200,000 persons watched the parade between Girard Avenue Bridge and Fairmount dam, while probably 100,000 more tried to get within seeing distance. Hundreds of small boats were outlined with electric lights, while big barges were decorated and lighted and carried musicians and crews in fancy costumes.

Striking Miners to Resume Work.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 30.—Eight hundred strikers at the mines of the American Beauxite Co., near here, decided to return to work today. Wages were increased from $1.75 to $2 a day and the company will make no objection to the men belonging to a union.

FRECKLES HOW TO BE SLIM

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by any druggist under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine. It is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.—ADV.

CARRIZAL TROOPERS BACK AT BARRACKS; ARRIVAL IS A GREAT EVENT IN EL PASO

Negroes Who Were Liberated From Prison and Returned to Border Tell of Their Experiences — Get Gifts of Cigars and Watermelons.

By CLAIR KENAMORE.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

EL PASO, Tex., June 30.—Declaring that the negro troopers from giving an even better account of themselves in the fight at Carrizal, First Sergeant Felix Page of K Troop, Tenth Cavalry, who was the first soldier to be officially turned over to the American officers on the International Bridge here yesterday and who was the ranking noncommissioned officer in the skirmish, said that, instead of fighting, the ammunition was exhausted, some of them had many rounds of cartridges when they were forced to stop shooting.

"Some of the men were able to fire few more than the cartridges they had in their carbines when the fight started," Page said, "for when they reached for their cartridge boxes they found the little pockets, each holding another clip full, stuck, and could not be opened. It was that fact which used many of the men to scatter, and the Mexicans, who outnumbered us many times, were on top of us and found it an easy matter to overtake and capture us. Some of the boys are here today for that reason, and if they had been able to keep on shooting fast, they never would have been taken alive. Just the same, I guess they all wish they could have got the flaps open."

With Morey When He Was Shot.
"I was with Capt. Morey after he was shot," said Sgt. Page, "he did not seem to be seriously wounded, although the hole I saw in his shoulder probably hurt him a lot. It never knocked him off his feet though, while the fight lasted. We managed to run to a little house with Capt. Morey and we did our firing through the window and between times bound up the Captain's shoulder. Finally he ordered me and Williams and Stokes to get out and shift for ourselves and he made us go, too. We managed to run for it a mile and a half away before we were surrounded and captured. I hear that it was while the Mexicans were chasing us that Capt. Morey got away."

"The Mexicans fired the first shot and then we came right back at them with our rifles. We were not hit, but we were not hit by any of our men. They simply outnumbered us greatly and had us surrounded when the firing commenced."

Fred Williams, a private of K Troop whose home is in St. Louis, said that what he was most proud of was the close was a good night's sleep. "The day after the Carrizal fight, I went to the Chihuahua jail a week ago Thursday night," said Williams, "and we left there Wednesday night, putting in that night on the train coming here. Our blankets were on the field where we fought, and the horses and we never saw them again. Then the Mexicans took everything else away, including most of our clothing and in Chihuahua we didn't even have a bench to sleep on, but had to lay down on the concrete floor with nothing under our heads. We wondered sometimes what they were going to do with us, but we never got any word that we might be treated simply as prisoners of war. It might have been to be back in the United States again but we're all anxious to get back to the Tenth and into the saddle."

"The only rough treatment we got was when they were taking us from Carrizal to Chihuahua," said Luther Alexander, one of the wounded men of K Troop. "Then the Mexican people crowded around us and yelled and threw some stones, but after that we were protected all right. On the way up here Wednesday night and Thursday morning we saw thousands of Mexican soldiers almost all the way to Juarez. They've got a lot of them in this part of the country all right, and they seem well armed. We saw them at the stations and in between the stations, too."

Alexander said he found himself in a ditch during the fighting and for nearly two hours was able to hold off the Mexicans before a large number of them closed in on him and captured him. "Those Greasers are the poorest marksmen in the world," he added. "Anytime they hit one of us it was just luck, but there were so many of them shooting that naturally a lot of them bullets landed."

George Chaplin almost succeeded in making his way to Juarez before he was caught. "With Corporal Bigstaff and Private Smith," he said, "I made a run for it. We three got separated and I worked my way to the railroad, with one Mexican right behind me. He kept shooting and missing, and finally I killed him with my revolver. I finally got into an open freight car and went to sleep."

Viewed one way, it was the rollcall after a battle, with the scanty list of survivors answering "here." In another way it was like a hard trader checking over a consignment of goods, long delayed, which finally had been delivered.

New Arrivals Fumigated.
Once the inventory was checked, the men were marched to the immigration building to be fumigated and re-Americanized. The return proper to their native land came in the midst of an ovation such as is given the conquering hero. Two thousand El Pasoans, white, black, red, yellow and brown jammed Santa Fe street from the International Bridge for six blocks. Four hundred infantry, in full field equipment kept back the crowds. A motor cycle squad of 30 machines with side cars was lined up along the street. Automobiles by scores filled in the confusion which is in order in a border town.

For an hour and a half the crowd waited after the negro soldiers had appeared in the immigration building. This building fronts on the bridge south of the north approach, and but few could see the men enter, but everybody waited for them to reappear. The crowd grew larger, the shabby clothed Mexicans of American citizenship predominating. The khaki of the soldiers was mixed with the white duck and linen of the El Paso citizens who long ago personally selected war on Mexico and are patiently waiting for the Government to follow suit.

as far as Guzman, where a brakeman found me and turned me over to some soldiers.

Shots Stop Machine Guns.
William D. Gibson, who was the last man to see Capt. Boyd alive, is credited by his comrades with putting a stop to the machine gun firing, although he himself modestly says he only obeyed orders. "I was at Capt. Boyd's side," he said, "when he was hit the first time, and went to the rear, got some water and came back. He told me to see if I couldn't pick off the two men who were working the machine guns, and I laid down and waited until first one showed his head and then the other, and I got them both. It was just then that Capt. Boyd was shot the second time and killed."

"British Vice-Consul Skobel was fine to us when we were locked up in Chihuahua," said Joe Oliver of K Troop. "He came to see us every day, told us that we would not be executed and finally brought the news that we were to be liberated."

Archibald Jones of K Troop, who was wounded in the arm, also suffered another injury which he was more willing to talk about yesterday than his gunshot wound. "I had $30 in my pockets," he said, "and these damn robbers didn't even leave my pocketbook. Gibson, who was not to have been the wealthiest of us, was with me, also lost $30, a diamond ring and a gold watch, all of which he carried into battle with him, as he explained it, for 'safekeeping.'"

Lem Spillbury, the American scout who accompanied the two troops on the expedition and who was the only white man not to be brought back as a prisoner, was not anxious to make any statements. When asked if he had made the statement in Chihuahua credited to him by the Mexicans, in which he placed the blame for the encounter largely on Capt. Boyd, who lost his life, Spillbury said he had been quoted correctly and repeated the story that he had urged Capt. Boyd not to go ahead.

Mexicans Bank on Spillbury.
Spillbury's statements yesterday were made while the prisoners were still in Juarez and great stress was placed upon them by the Mexican officials there, who were anxious for the newspaper men to see the scout.

"I do not know who fired the first shot, or where it came from," said Spillbury. "I only know that the Mexicans became angry immediately after the first shot was fired. After the second talk on the field between Capt. Boyd and Gen. Gomez, I urged the former to turn back, and he said, 'I am the commander here; all you've got to do is obey.' Then I told him to order his men not to fire unless they were fired on, but just about that time the shooting started. I could not see where it came from."

The fact the cartridge belts were hard to open, as explained by Sgt. Page, was not an unknown condition, and the soldiers along the border have been instructed to keep opening and closing the flaps so as to get them working easily. They are fastened shut with a clasp like a man's walking glove, and when they are open they have been kept closed together by the men lying upon them in skirmish drills the soldiers say it is extremely hard to throw them open.

Men Back in Their Barracks.
The 23 troopers are back in their barracks at Fort Bliss again today as good as new and ready to answer when the roll is called.

The most impressive part of the return was their reception at the middle of the International Bridge. They had come through Juarez, where probably 6000 Mexicans had watched their being trained in absolute silence. At the commandant's aid at the custom house they received the respect of cold silence. When they finally were taken to the bridge to be turned over to officers, they were met by the commanding officer by Gen. Gonzales, the commandant; Mexican Consul Garcia and Mayor Prieta of Juarez. These three men marched abreast wide apart down the bridge, while the troopers, two abreast, came behind them.

The ranks of their ragged uniforms. Few had shirts and two were without trousers. Their leggings were gone or nearly so, they were unshaven and grimy, but they dressed the line right jauntily when they came to the halt at the international boundary.

NEGROES WHO WERE LIBERATED FROM PRISON AND RETURNED TO BORDER TELL OF THEIR EXPERIENCES

Get Gifts of Cigars and Watermelons.

By CLAIR KENAMORE.

EL PASO, Tex., June 30.—Declaring that the negro troopers from giving an even better account of themselves in the fight at Carrizal, First Sergeant Felix Page of K Troop, Tenth Cavalry, who was the first soldier to be officially turned over to the American officers on the International Bridge here yesterday and who was the ranking noncommissioned officer in the skirmish, said that, instead of fighting, the ammunition was exhausted, some of them had many rounds of cartridges when they were forced to stop shooting.

"Some of the men were able to fire few more than the cartridges they had in their carbines when the fight started," Page said, "for when they reached for their cartridge boxes they found the little pockets, each holding another clip full, stuck, and could not be opened. It was that fact which used many of the men to scatter, and the Mexicans, who outnumbered us many times, were on top of us and found it an easy matter to overtake and capture us. Some of the boys are here today for that reason, and if they had been able to keep on shooting fast, they never would have been taken alive. Just the same, I guess they all wish they could have got the flaps open."

With Morey When He Was Shot.
"I was with Capt. Morey after he was shot," said Sgt. Page, "he did not seem to be seriously wounded, although the hole I saw in his shoulder probably hurt him a lot. It never knocked him off his feet though, while the fight lasted. We managed to run to a little house with Capt. Morey and we did our firing through the window and between times bound up the Captain's shoulder. Finally he ordered me and Williams and Stokes to get out and shift for ourselves and he made us go, too. We managed to run for it a mile and a half away before we were surrounded and captured. I hear that it was while the Mexicans were chasing us that Capt. Morey got away."

Indeed, there was something pathetic in the lonely bachelorhood of the War Secretary, who occasionally to his intimates dropped remarks bearing on his lack of home and near relations. Not a week passed but he was in a little house with his wife, where he had not paid a visit to Marlborough House, where he would remain for long visits with Queen Alexandra, and come away with a long list of those combats of whom her friends had made special inquiries. However pressing the demands of the campaign on the war front, he would always return within a few days with the desired information.

Dinner Parties to Men Only.
At York House, St. James' Palace, he gave a number of dinner parties to men only, the military element being not always conspicuous at these. He liked doctors, but cared nothing for actors or musicians. Several of the higher clergy in London enjoyed his friendship and hospitality.

Lord Kitchener was personally well liked by his subordinates, and his close was a good night's sleep. "The more expensive curiosity shops in London. He would bargain over purchases, but did not possess the commercial sense, and in the end would always pay a good price, usually on his own initiative. The dealer generally received the goods the day after delivery, the check being quite often post-dated a month or two.

The walkout came after the company had refused to reinstate two men who were discharged for being members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

Most of the employees of the company are members of the Amalgamated, according to two organizers of that body, Frank Roebuck and Sam Rissman. The company has objected to this organization, although it was willing that its workers should be members of local 105 of the United Garment Workers, to which some of them belong.

Following the walkout, the men and women went to the Fraternal building, Eleventh street and Franklin avenue, where a meeting was held.

NEARLY $1,000,000 SPENT HERE FOR ARMY SUPPLIES

Purchase of Shoes and Underwear Last Tuesday Alone Amounted to $500,000.

Uncle Sam is shopping in St. Louis. He is snapping up bargains wherever he finds them, even to the extent of buying job lots of hats to be worn by the militiamen who are being equipped at the mobilization camps.

Last Tuesday the War Department's purchases in St. Louis alone amounted to $500,000, the principal articles purchased being shoes and underwear.

Of the three army supply depots in the United States, the one in St. Louis is the largest and at present the most important, as it is closer than the others to the possible theater of conflict in Mexico.

The depot is at Third and Arsenal streets and comprises a group of about 20 buildings. It is known to St. Louisans as the "old Arsenal."

Capt. A. E. Williams, in charge of the supply depot, is directing the purchase of the equipment necessary for the State troops now in process of mobilization. Fourteen of the 20 buildings at the supply depot are filled with supplies, but these are not drawn upon in equipping the militiamen.

The local supply depot is called upon to furnish all the clothing equipment needed for the men who were enlisted to bring the militia organizations up to full peace strength. This involves furnishing supplies for about 45,000 men.

Thus far, hats have been the scarcest article of equipment. Campaign hats of all shades and of styles long ago discarded by the regular army are being bought wherever they can be obtained. Some of these hats were sold by the Government after being discarded and are now being bought back at a higher price.

Under ordinary circumstances all purchases are made on contracts after bids have been submitted, but the present emergency has caused the Government to permit Capt. Williams to go into the open market and make his purchases outright. For the last week these purchases have amounted to an average of about $100,000 a day, of which about $60,000 a day has been spent with St. Louis firms.

Contracts for approximately $500,000 in war supplies were awarded in the past three days, in the main to St. Louis firms, by Col. D. S. Stanley, Quartermaster of the U. S. Army Field Supply Depot, Second and Arsenal streets. The contracts call for most of the goods to be delivered immediately, while some will not be ready for 15 or 20 days.

The largest contract awarded was to the International Shoe Co. of St. Louis for 72,684 pairs of shoes, to cost the Government $1,130,000. Other contracts made were: Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., 23,507 pairs of shoes, $101,315.20; Brown Shoe Co., 100,000 pairs shoe laces, $241.22; 11,543 pairs shoes, $38,783.25; Cal Hirsch & Sons, 304 blankets, $430; 4000 hats, $4800; 200 coats, $332; Alligator Oil Clothing Co., 200 slickers, $4640; Thomas H. McKittick Manufacturing Co., 35,000 bed sacks, $43,750; McElroy-Sloan Shoe Co., 5675 pairs of shoes, $16,899.00; H. Sheldon Manufacturing Co., 100,000 tent pins, $1120; Ely & Walker Dry Goods Co., 6000 undershirts, $1745.20; 16,192 blankets, $48,515.35; Six, Bear & Fuller, 13,200 pairs of stockings, $1093; Rosenwasser Bros. of New York were awarded a contract for 42,000 leggings, $4,600, and the Sexton Manufacturing Co. of Fairfield, Ill., was awarded a contract for 6500 dozen undershirts, $15,060, and 9200 dozen drawers, $38,704.90. All of the goods is for the outfitting of the militia in the 22 states supplied by the St. Louis depot, the troops now on the border and in Mexico, and to create a reserve to care for the additional 20 regiments of infantry, 10 of cavalry and six of field artillery, which Capt. Williams has been ordered to be prepared to care for soon after July 1.

At the depot a force of 125 men, which is being increased each day, is rushing to fill the requisitions for supplies of the troops now going into Government service. A night force was started last night and from now until the emergency situation is passed the shipping department will work from 8 a. m. until 1 a. m. All of the supplies are being shipped by express.

Capt. Williams estimates that already $700,000 has been spent for war supplies in St. Louis.

466 BRITISH OFFICERS, FOUR GENERALS KILLED IN MAY
LONDON, June 30.—Published lists for the month of May show that 466 British officers were killed, 199 were wounded and 45 missing—a total of 1601. ENGLISH PAPERS URGE CLEMENCY FOR CASEMENT

Manchester Guardian, Leading Publication, Says Execution
Would Avail Nothing.

PRISONER IS DRAMATIC

Long Statement Condemns His Trial in England—Would Welcome Irish Verdict.

LONDON, June 30.—The Manchester Guardian, one of the most influential papers in the country, makes a direct plea for clemency for Sir Roger Casement.

While admitting that no other sentence but that of death could have been pronounced by the court, the Guardian says:

"Casement was a fanatic and his crimes, like those of many other fanatics, are free from the taint of selfishness and meanness. The death penalty will do nothing to kill such dreams as his. Rather it will give them life. For the sake of the new Ireland which we hope to see, it is a moment for clemency."

An indirect plea for mercy is made by other papers on the ground that the execution of Casement would not assist in settling the Irish problem.

In case the death penalty is insisted upon Casement must ask to be beheaded instead of hanged. There is precedent in early treason cases.

Smiles at Death Sentence.

On hearing his doom Sir Roger leaped over the bars of the dock, waved his hand, smiled to his two nieces, turned leisurely on his heel and disappeared through the curtain. He certainly was the least moved person in the court at that tragic moment.

Sir Roger's statement to the Court was as follows:

"We have seen the constitutional army refuse to obey the constitutional government and we were told the first duty of Irishmen was to enter that army. Small nations were to be the first consideration. I saw no reason why Ireland should shed any blood for any people but her own."

"If that be treason I am not ashamed to avow it here. If the Unionists chose the road they thought would lead to the good side, I knew my road led to the dark side. Both of us proved right. So I am proud to stand here in a traitor's dock than to fill the place of my accusers."

"Self-government is our right. It is no more a thing to be withheld from us or doled out to us than the right to life or light, to sunshine or spring flowers."

"How would all men here feel, how would you feel if an Englishman had landed in England and had been taken to Ireland, if the man had been placed before a jury in a community inflamed against him, believing him to be a criminal?"

"There is an objection, possibly not good in law, but surely good on moral grounds, against the application to me here of this old English statute 55 years old, that seeks to deprive an Irishman today of his life and honor, not for adhering to the King's enemies, but for adhering to his own people."

Points to Change in Times.

"When this statute was passed in 1831, what was the state of men's mind on the question of a far higher allegiance, that of man and his God to his kingdom? The law of that day did not permit him to forsake his church or deny his God save with his life. The heretic had had the same doom as the traitor."

"Today a man may forswear God and his heavenly realm without fear or penalty, all earlier statutes having gone the way of Nero's edicts against the Christians; but that constitutional phantom, the King, can still dig up from the dungeons and torture chambers of the Dark Ages a law that takes a man's life and limb for an exercise of his conscience."

"If true religion rests on love, it is equally true that loyalty rests on love. The law I am charged under has no percentage in love, and claims that allegiance of today on the ignorance and blindness of the past."

"I am being tried, in truth, not by my peers of the living present, but by the fears of the dead past; not by the civilization of the twentieth century, but by the brutality of the fourteenth; not even by a statute framed in the language of the land that tries me, but emitted in the language of an enemy land, so antiquated is the law that must be sought today to slay an Irishman whose offense is that he puts Ireland first."

"Loyalty is a sentiment, not a law. It rests on love, not on restraint. The Government of Ireland by England rests on restraint, not on law, and since it demands no love it can evoke no loyalty."

Cannot be Prejudiced.

"This court, this jury, the public opinion of this country, England, cannot but be prejudiced in varying degrees, most of all in time of war. I did not land in England; I landed in Ireland. It was to Ireland I came, to Ireland I wanted to come, and the last place I desired to land was England. But for the Attorney-General of England there is no Ireland; there is only England; there is no Ireland, only the law of England; no right to Ireland. Yet for me, the Irish outcast, there is a land of Ireland, a right to Ireland, a charter for all Irishmen to land in the last resort, a charter that even the very statutes of England cannot deprive me of, a charter that Englishmen themselves assert as a fundamental bond of law that connects the two kingdoms."

Referring to the phrase of the indictment that he set an evil example to others, Sir Roger said:

"The Englishman I set no evil example, I set a good example to the Irish. I asked the English to give me my rights. Place of my own country, the Catholic, Unionist or Nationalist, Sinn Fein or Orange, and I shall accept the verdict and bow to the statute and all its penalties.

"It is not I who am afraid of the verdict of such a jury; it is the Crown. If this be not so, why fear the test? I fear it not; I demand it as my right. It was not I who landed in England, but the Crown that dragged me here, away from my own country, to which I had returned with a price upon my head, away from my own countrymen, whose loyalty is not in doubt, and safe from the judgment of my peers whose judgment I do not shrink from."

Condemns English-Made Laws.

"That is the condemnation of English rule in Ireland, of English-made law, that it dare not rest on the will of the Irish people, but exists in defiance of their will; that it is a rule derived, not from right, but from conquest. Conquest gives no title; it can exert no empire over men's reason and judgment and affections. It is from this law of conquest, without title, to the reason, judgment and affections of my own countrymen, that I appeal."

Having finished this statement, the prisoner said:

"This much I penned in my prison 15 days ago."

He then continued, declaring that the Nationalist volunteers, founded in Dublin in November, 1913, had no quarrel with the Ulster volunteers, formed a year earlier, only with the men who sought "to pervert to English party use, to the mean purposes of their own bid-ing for place and power, the armed activities of the simple Irishmen."

"We aimed at winning the Ulster volunteers who broke the law, but a British party Government who had permitted the Ulster volunteers to be armed by Englishmen, to threaten not only an English party in its hold on office, but to threaten that party through the lives and blood of Irishmen. The battle was to be fought in Ireland, that the political out of today should be the ins of tomorrow."

Doctrine of Hatred Preached.

"In Great Britain a law designed for the benefit of Ireland was to be met, not on the floor of Parliament, where the fight had been won, but on the field, with Irishmen slaying each other for English party again."

"That party was preaching a doctrine of hatred, designed to bring civil war in Ireland, while the party in power took no steps to restrain its propaganda, which was finding advocates in the army, the navy, the privy council, in Parliament and state and church."

American in Mexican Army Killed.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 30.—The arrival here today of C. S. Harle developed the first news of the death two months ago of Louis Coffey, a San Antonio resident who was a machine gun operator in the de facto Government army. According to Harle, Coffey was taken prisoner at Camargo by Villa forces and killed.

CAMPAIGN BEGUN FOR NONPARTISAN CITY ELECTIONS

Nomination by Petition Plan Advocated by Municipal Ballot Conference.

A campaign to remove the offices of Mayor, Comptroller, President and members of the Board of Aldermen from control of political bosses by elimination of party captions on city ballots, and by requiring that nominations be made by petition instead of by primary election, will be inaugurated tomorrow by the Municipal Ballot Conference, comprised of 125 civic leaders.

The conference proposes to submit to the people for their approval at the November election an ordinance authorizing these changes in the methods of electing municipal officials. The initiative will be invoked to bring this issue before the people, and 30 canvassers will start out tomorrow morning with petitions to get the required 7000 signatures.

The evils of political control of municipal offices are strikingly demonstrated in the present administration. Mayor Kiel is a candidate to succeed himself next spring, and in order to bring about his re-nomination he is making a desperate fight for control of the Republican City Committee, which, he thinks, will have the power to nominate or defeat him. He is being fought by another powerful faction of the party organization, and city jobs are being given to the committeemen, or to their relatives or particular friends, to win their support to the Mayor's cause.

If the ordinance which the Municipal Ballot Conference proposes should be adopted by the people in November, the Mayor would not have to go to the Republican party for another nomination, he could assure the printing of his name on the official municipal ballot next April by obtaining the signatures to his petition of 2 per cent of the registered voters of the city—about 3000.

But under the plan proposed, Mayor Kiel would not appear on the ballot as the candidate of the Republican party, or any other party, but his name and the name of all other candidates, whether Democrats, Socialists or Independents would appear in one group, without anything to show their party affiliations.

Would Destroy Bosses' Power.
Through this system of selecting municipal officials, the conference believes, the power of the party bosses would be completely destroyed, because they could not resort in the first place to the use of marked sample ballots to nominate a slate of candidates, and they would be deprived of all means of drawing party lines in municipal election.

The chairman of the municipal ballot conference has not been chosen, but will be in a few days. John H. Gundlach, former President of the City Council, and Samuel Rosenfeld, member of the last Board of Freeholders, constitute a committee to select a chairman of the conference. F. N. Judson, also a member of the Board of Freeholders that wrote the new charter, is vice chairman of the conference. Benjamin A. Wood is secretary and Henry H. Oberschelp is treasurer. Among others identified with the movement are Owen Miller of the Musicians' Union, Flint Garrison, Joseph A. Wright, member of the Board of Election Commissioners; Willard D. Vandiver, United States Subtreasurer; F. P. O'Hare, Herman W. Fay, O'Neill Ryan, Edward Flad, Hobart Brinsmade, J. L. Mauran, Frank L. Magoon, Dr. H. W. Hermann, John E. Massengale, Cliff R. Croninger, Oscar Leonard, P. M. Bruner, F. M. Curless, H. B. Wallace, R. A. Boyle, Benjamin Gratz, Perry Post Taylor, E. C. Elliot, A. B. Frey and Julius C. Birge.

Under the law the initiative petitions will have to be filed with the Board of Election Commissioners by July 14. The election of the conference believes that they will be able to obtain the 7000 signatures within the two weeks at their disposal.

The conference says that "the chief means of control of municipal offices by political bosses lies in the primaries, which are almost as effective for political purposes as the old conventions. The voter can only choose between the candidates put up by the party bosses on either side. The organizations run the primary. As a means of popular control of nominations it is a failure."

The ordinance which will be submitted to the people, if the necessary signatures are obtained, will also provide for preferential voting on the candidates for Mayor, Comptroller and President of the Board of Aldermen. Preferential voting is new to St. Louis. It simply means that each voter may vote for a first, second and other choice for Mayor and Comptroller and President of the Board of Aldermen. The object of this system of elections is to elect by a majority vote.

Under this system it would be possible that a candidate for Mayor, who received the greatest number of first choice votes, but less than a majority, might not be elected. Some other candidate who failed to receive as many first choice votes, but who had a greater number of second choice or other choice votes, might be found to have a majority when all of his votes were added together, and would thereby be declared elected. However, any candidate receiving first choice votes equal to a majority of all the ballots cast would be elected.

J. S. LAPSLEY QUILTS POLICE BOARD OF KANSAS CITY

Resignation Expected Since Gov. Major Started His Vice Presidential Boom.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 30.—The long expected resignation of J. S. Lapsley as a member of the Police Board came yesterday.

If a deal made by Gov. Major while he was pursuing the vice presidential nomination is carried out, the new commissioner will be a man friendly to the Pendergast interests here.

Lapsley yesterday denied his resignation had been demanded or suggested by the Governor. He said he had too much work to attend to give attention to the commissionership.

Says Negro Hit Her on Head.

Miss Violet Burke, 15 years old, of 1202A Hodiament avenue, was found unconscious at Cockrell and Bertha avenues at 12:30 o'clock this morning. When revived she told the police that a negro struck her on the head shortly after she had left a car on her return from a summer garden. Her mother told the police that Miss Burke was subject to fainting spells.

The second big entertainment at Delmar Garden this season for the benefit of the babies in the homes of the very poor, as ministered to through the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund, will take place this evening. The three-act operetta, "A Golden Gift," is to be produced with a cast and chorus of 150 bright and talented girls and boys, all residents of University City, under the direction of Miss M. Louise Arnold of 5124 Kennington avenue. There is no misgiving among those who have knowledge of what the children have done in their daily rehearsals of the bright and tuneful work as to the adequateness of the production this evening. Not only will the score of the operetta be interpreted with skill and power, but the costuming and scenic surroundings have all been fully provided.

It has added to the inspiration of the young people and their instructor to know from the popular interest as revealed through large advance sales of tickets that the audience is to be of capacity-taxing dimensions and that the vital cause for which the affair was organized and rounded out will derive substantial support from it. Tickets for grown persons are 25 cents each and for children 10 cents.

Prompted by desire to have a part in the work of saving the lives of the poor babies, nine children, all living in the 800 block of Minerva avenue organized an entertainment for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund which netted $3. The principal number on the program was a playlet.

Darky's Funeral," in which the trained little players held the sympathy of the audience through easy and natural portrayal of the pathos surrounding the death and burial of an infant from a home of poverty. Another feature was a dance humoresque. Songs, dances and recitations rounded out the entertainment. Cakes and candy were sold after the performance. At the close all the children sang "America." The entertainment took place in the yard of 5055 Minerva avenue, which was beautifully decorated with Japanese lanterns and varicolored bunting.

Those who shared in the success are Adele Maginn, Dorothy Duckworth, Elizabeth Brown, Marian Paulin, Delphine Paulin, Irene Hayes, Leonard McDonald, Edward Schrantz and Helen Gray.

OUR 3ARRESTS IN AUTO
PARKING CASES TO BEGIN MONDAYPeriod of Education Allowed by the Police Expires on Sunday.

Beginning next Monday violators of the automobile parking ordinance will be arrested, according to an announcement made today at police headquarters.

The ordinance went into effect May 27 but the police have given auto owners a month to learn the new rules and have distributed books of instruction and placed stickers on windshields of machines that were not properly parked, calling the attention of owners to the particular provision violated.

The police think the automobile owners should know the law by now.

Under the new ordinance Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth streets, from Washington avenue to Market street, are one-way thoroughfares from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. On Sixth and Eighth streets, which are for southbound traffic, machines must keep to the east of the car tracks and must park on the west side facing south at an angle of 30 degrees.

On Seventh and Ninth streets, which are for northbound traffic, machines must keep to the west of the car tracks and must park on the east side, facing north at an angle of 30 degrees.

The streets on which machines may be parked not more than two hours are Fourth to Eighth, Chestnut from Fourth to Ninth, Pine from Fourth to Tenth, Olive from Fourth to Twelfth, Locust from Fourth to Thirteenth, St. Charles from Fourth to Tenth, Washington from Fourth to Ninth, and on Grand from Lindell to Morgan.

Persons who are arrested will be taken to the police station, where they will be permitted to give bond for appearance in Police Court.

MARSHALL WANTS TIME FOR
ANSWER IN CONTEMPT CASE

NEW YORK, June 30.—United States District Attorney H. Snowden Marshall, recently declared in contempt of Congress, has made public his correspondence with Congressman E. Y. Webb, chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives, a subcommittee of which investigated the accusations about him.

The charges against Marshall were made by Congressman Frank Buchanan of Illinois, shortly after a Federal Grand Jury returned indictments accusing Buchanan, Franz von Rintelen, a German agent, David Lamar, "the wolf of Wall Street," and others, of utilizing the organization known as "Labor's National Peace Council," in a conspiracy to prevent the shipment of munitions from this country to the entente allies, by inciting strikes.

In a letter to Congressman Webb dated June 21, Marshall objected to the form of the inquiry and asked for more time in which to file his answer. He wrote in part:

"I hope that you and other gentlemen in the House of Representatives, for whom I have a very high respect, will not make the same mistake which I think you heretofore made in dealing with this transaction. That is of considering this letter as in any sense intended as a contempt of the House. The exposure of the misconduct of one or more members of the House is not, in my opinion, a contempt of the House, but ought to be, and I think will be, regarded as a favor to the honorable members of that body."

New Johnson-Enderle-Pauley Store. A new drug store of the Johnson-Enderle-Pauley Co. will be opened tomorrow at Florissant and College avenues. This will be the eighth in a chain of stores owned by this company. Other stores are located in all parts of St. Louis, two other new ones having been opened in the last year. The first North St. Louis store was opened at Bernays and Lillian avenues not long ago and the Johnson-Enderle-Pauley store at Grand avenue and Olive street was opened last fall. The company expects to open a new drug store in South St. Louis soon, making its ninth store. This extensive chain of stores gives the Johnson-Enderle-Pauley Co. the buying power of a wholesale house, according to its officials, and enables it to offer many advantages to its patrons.

Auto Wrecked by Street Car. Frank B. Wyette, a salesman, 41 years old, of 5336 Page boulevard, driving his automobile across Page boulevard at Arlington avenue behind a westbound car last night, was hit by an eastbound car. His automobile was pushed a distance of 100 feet and was wrecked. Several of Wyette's ribs were fractured and he was internally hurt.

PRESIDENT TALKS TO "AD" MEN OF AMERICAN IDEALS

Describes Them Belief in Liberty, Justice and Humanity, Put Into Action.

RISE ABOVE SELFISHNESS

Must Be Vindicated in Our Foreign Relations, He Says, in Philadelphia Speech.

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—Speaking to a large crowd in Independence Square yesterday afternoon, President Wilson emphasized that America not only must understand her ideals, but must be prepared to put them into action at any cost, and that the principles for which this country stands must be vindicated in the country's foreign relations. America has the right, the President said, to demand that other nations treat her with justice and respect, but she cannot win dignity or self-respect unless upon that unless she is willing to act in the same fashion toward them.

"That," he said, "I am ready to fight for at any cost."

The President declared he was "in a fighting mood" and held up liberty, justice and humanity as cardinal American ideals for which he was willing to fight. "America first," he said, must be translated into action exalting it above all selfish interests, and the nation's policy and development must be guided by the whole people, and not by any group.

Officially, the President addressed delegates to the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, but a mixed crowd heard him. He spoke in the open air, under the shadow of Independence Hall. He returned to Washington immediately after the address.

Text of the Address.

The full text of President Wilson's address follows:

"You will understand that I have not come here to make an extended address. I do not need to explain to you the circumstances which have made it impossible that I should prepare an extended address; but I count myself very fortunate to be able to leave my duties at Washington long enough to face this interesting company of men who have the very fine conception that it is their duty to lift the standards and ideals of their profession.

"I understand, gentlemen, that you have associated yourselves together in order to promote candor and truth in the advertisement of your business. I wish very much, gentlemen, that candor and truth might always be the standard of politics as well as the standard of business. I want to challenge your attention for a moment to this aspect of your activities.

"I do not see how a man can devote himself to candor and truth in the promotion of a particular business without studying the life of the great nation to whom he addresses his advertising. I do not see how a man can fail, having established the horizon of his business where the great hills of truth lie, to lift his eyes to the great multitude of laboring men and striving women who constitute a great nation like ours and in the very act of addressing them get in his consciousness some part of the impulse of their life. You cannot commend your business to people that you do not understand, and you cannot understand the people of the United States without wishing to serve them.

Must Put Ideals Into Action.

"So I come to you with this thought: America is at a point, gentlemen, where it is more than ever necessary that she should understand her own ideal, not only, but be ready to put them into action at any cost. It is one thing to entertain fine principles, and another thing to make them work. It is one thing to entertain them in the formulas of words, like the splendid words which were uttered and give direction to this ancient and historic building behind me, but it is another thing to do what those same men did—make those words live in the action of their lives. And America is summoned 'in each new generation to renew not only the pledges that they made, but to renew the example which they gave to the world.

"I am not interested, and I beg that you will believe me when I say that I never have been interested, in fighting for myself, but I am immensely interested in things for the things that we believe in, and so far as they are concerned, I am a challenger to all comers. It is important, therefore, since I am in a fighting mood, to let you know what are some of the things that I do believe in.

"In the first place, I believe—and I summon you to show your belief in the same thing—that it is the duty of every American in everything that he does, in his business and out of it, to think first, not of himself or of any interest which he may be called upon to sacrifice, but of the country which we serve. 'America first' means nothing until you translate it in what you do. So I believe most profoundly in the duty of every American to exalt the national consciousness by purifying his own motives and exhibiting his own devotion.

"I believe, in the second place, that America, the country that we put first in our thoughts, should be ready in every point of policy and of action to vindicate, at whatever cost, the principles of liberty, of justice and of humanity, to which we have been devoted from the first.

Justice to Other Nations.

"You cheer the sentiment, but do you realize what it means? It means that you have not only got to be just to your fellow men, but that as a nation you have got to be just to other nations. It comes high. It is not an easy thing to do. It is easy to think first of the material interest of America, but it is not easy to think first of what America, if she loves justice, ought to do in the field of international affairs.

"I believe that, at whatever cost,

America should be just to other peoples and treat other peoples as she demands that they should treat her. She has a right to demand that they treat her with justice and respect, and she has a right to insist that they treat her in that fashion, but she cannot with dignity or with self-respect insist upon that unless she is willing to act in the same fashion toward them. That I am ready to fight for at any cost to myself.

"Then, in the third place, touching ourselves more intimately, my fellow citizens, this is what I believe: If I understand the life of America, the central principle of it is this, that no small body of persons, no matter how influential, shall be trusted to determine the policy and development of America. You know what you want in your business. You want a fair deal and no favor. You want to be given the same opportunity that other men have, not only to make known what you have to sell, but to sell it under as favorable conditions as anybody else; and the principle of the life of America is that she draws her vitality, not from small bodies of men who may wish to assume the responsibility of guiding and controlling her, but from the body of thinking and toiling and planning men from whom she draws her energy and vitality as a nation.

Why He Is Democrat.

"I believe, and this is the reason I am a Democrat, not merely with a big D, but with a little d—I am all kinds of a Democrat, so far as I can discover—but the root of the whole business is this, that I believe in the patriotism and energy and initiative of the average man.

"Some men say they believe in it, but when they act they show that they do not. They show that they think the only advice that it is safe to take is their advice. I was not referring to any individual, but I could give you an interesting and a very short list of a group of individuals who have that opinion, namely, that it is not safe for the United States to escape from their control.

"I feel perfectly safe in the hands of the average body of my fellow citizens. You are bound to feel safe in their hands. If they do not believe in you, you cannot sell anything. If they do not believe in you, you cannot conduct your business. Your vitality comes from them to you; it does not go from you to them. The theory of government which I desire to subscribe to is that the vitality of the nation comes out of elected councils where a few men determine the policy of the country.

"So, gentlemen, I feel at home in this country, not because I advertise, but because I have got principles that I am perfectly willing to expose to the public view, and because I want to express my sympathy with, not only, but my admiration for, a body of men who think it is worth while to get together in order to tell the truth. The only thing that ever set any man free, the only thing that ever set any nation free, is the truth. A man that is afraid of the truth is afraid of the law of life. A man that does not love the truth is in the way of decay and of failure, and I believe that if you will just let the vitality that is in you and the enthusiasm that is in you run beyond the confines of the business that you may be interested in, you will presently feel that infinite reward, as if the red blood of a whole nation came surging back into your own veins.

Belonging to Free Nation.

"Can you imagine, my fellow countrymen, a more inspiring thing than to belong to a free nation and make your way among men, every one of whom has the right and the opportunity to say what he thinks. Criticism does not hurt anybody. I heard an old politician once say to his son, 'John, don't bother your head about lies and slanders; they will take care of themselves. But if you ever hear me denying anything you may make up your mind that it is so. And when you see a man winking under criticism, you may know that something is wrong with him.'"

"And, therefore, when they are saying the things that are not true, there is no credit in keeping your head and not minding it. I have such an inveterate confidence in the ultimate triumph of the truth that I feel with old Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, that the truth is no invalid, and you need not mind how roughly you handle her. She has got a splendid constitution and she will survive every trial and every labor.

"I have come, therefore, as I have abundantly shown you, not to make a formal speech—if I could show you some of the things I have been obliged to do before I came here, you would know that I could not possibly make a speech up—but merely to show my profound interest in a body of men who are not only devoted to business, but devoted to ideals. Business is all right so long as it is not world, and it cannot be world if it is done through with ideals. A man, no matter how humble his business, can hold his head up among the princes of the world if, as they ought to do, he will think of himself as the servant of the people and not as their master, as one who would serve and not one who would govern."

"I congratulate you, my fellow citizens, upon the ideals of a profession which can lower or exalt business as you choose and which you have chosen to employ for its exaltation. I came away from Washington to look into your faces and get some of the enthusiasm which I always get when I come away from officialdom and touch hand with great bodies of American free people."

MUTINEERS FIGHT SHIP'S CREW

Mexican and Spaniards Armed With Knives and Firearms.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The Norwegian steamship Nordanger, with two members of the crew in irons, reached here early today from Marseilles. The two men, a Mexican and a Spaniard, armed with knives and firearms, refused to work after the vessel left Marseilles and until two days ago, when they were finally seized, fought with the crew and succeeded in destroying a large quantity of the ship's stores.

Many of the crew reached New York with cuts and bruises. Once, when captured and locked in the carpenter's shop aboard the vessel, the mutineers set fire to a pile of shavings and escaped while the crew fought the blaze.

DIVORCE TO HAYDEN RUBELMANN

He Testifies Wife Neglected Home and Was Quarrelsome.

Hayden Rubelmann of 3537 Arsenal street, president of the St. Louis Machine Supply Co., obtained a divorce from Minnie D. C. Rubelmann in Judge Cave's court yesterday. She did not appear, but was represented by counsel. The Rubelmanns were married June 15, 1892, and separated Aug. 1, 1915. He testified that his wife did not seem to care for her home and would leave as soon as he went to his business in the morning and remain away during the day. He also said that she drank to excess and threw household articles at him. Their daughter, Mrs. Margaret Allen, was a witness for her father.

FINED FOR ELECTRICITY THEFT

Mrs. Cora Sadowski and her daughter, Mrs. Kelllogg, 3038 Thomas street, were each fined $50 and costs in Judge Miller's court yesterday as the result of their arrest on June 2, charged jointly with "stealing electricity." The Union Electric company prosecuted the case. It was developed at the trial that use was made by the defendants of a "jumper," a homemade contrivance of wire that short-circuits the meter, thereby preventing the recording wheel of the meter's mechanism from revolving.

KANSAS WANTS 10,000 MEN

Crops Ripening Fast, and Labor Is Short.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 30.—Kansas needs 10,000 harvest hands at once. "The crop is ripening fast all over the State," said Labor Commissioner McBride. "We are swamped with requests for help, but so far we have been able to get only a few stragglers. Usually many plants are shut down in the East at this season of the year and the idle men are glad to come west for the harvest. But the munition factories have absorbed all the surplus help."

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives and publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

ROCKPILE FOR WIFEBEATERS

Police Judge's Plan to Exhibit Them Publicly Called Off.

KANSAS CITY, June 30.—The plan of J. H. Brady, Judge of the Police court of Kansas City, Kan., to chain convicted wife-beaters to a pole where pedestrians in the uptown district might see them, probably will not go through. Mayor C. W. Green opposes the idea and Judge Brady has found that it probably could not be worked out under the State laws. "Judge Brady will send all wife-beaters to the rockpile hereafter and make them work, instead of permitting them to remain idle in the city workhouse," Mayor Green said.

1200 Summer Suits for Men! The Surplus Stock of Society Brand Clothes

$20, $25, $30 and $35 Suits, Including
All the Midsummer Styles—

⇒ $ 16.75 ←

THE SALE OF SALES! And it comes at the very time when most men are planning their Summer suits. Under ordinary conditions a sale of this kind would be impossible; but the makers of SOCIETY BRAND CLOTHES had a surplus stock which they closed out to us at a substantial reduction, and we are turning the saving in your favor.

YOU know, of course, that the lowest regular retail price of Society Brand Clothes is $20. The usual price range is from $20 to $35. In this special group there are Suits of the $20, $25, $30 and $35 grades, and they'll all go at one price—$16.75. You can judge by these price comparisons just how unusual the opportunity really is:

TO be exact, the lot consists of 1200 Summer Suits in all the smart fancy patterns of the season. There are one, two and three button models—regular and pinch-back styles—and the popular tropical worsteds. All are accurately tailored and superbly finished. Some are fully lined with silk, others are quarter-silk lined, and still others have just the silk sleeve lining.

THERE is so wide a variety that no man can fail to find an appropriate style; and the name—"Society Brand Clothes"—guarantees the quality from the first stitch to the last button. The range of sizes includes a perfect-fitting suit for men of every age, weight, height and build.

AS a final word, remember this: no clothing sale of the season has offered suits of equal style and quality at so low a price as $16.75, and when we tell you that the opportunity is exceptional, we are stating a truth that is easily proved. Come in tomorrow and see for yourself; the evidence is here—in every one of these 1200 "Society Brand" Summer Suits at $16.75 each.

BOY FIRES BLANK, ARRESTED

The season's first arrest for violating the ordinance prohibiting the firing of blank cartridges was made last night when Chris Stevens, 16 years old, of 2235 North Twentieth street was taken into custody for shooting a .32-calibre blank. He later was turned over to his parents who were instructed to produce him in Juvenile Court when he is summoned.

FUND FOR SAFE AND SANE FOURTH STILL LACKS $8500

Nation's Birthday Association Says $10,000 Is Necessary for Celebration in Forest Park.

REGULARS TO MARCH

Fireworks to Illustrate Modern Warfare, Including the Blowing Up of Ship.

At least $10,000 is necessary to defray the expenses of the safe and sane celebration to be given in Forest Park the afternoon and evening of July 4. This estimate was made at a meeting of the Nation's Birthday Association yesterday afternoon in the office of Probate Judge Holtcamp, president of the association.

The association now has $1500 in its treasury. It will be necessary to raise $8500 by public subscription. Festus J. Waco, president of the Mercantile Trust Co., was named as one member of a committee to solicit the funds.

A suggestion that the celebration be on a smaller scale, due to anticipated difficulty in soliciting money on account of many other calls for funds at present, met with disfavor. It was decided to carry out the original plans.

M. F. Doud, secretary of the association, personally offered $1000 and said he felt sure the required sum could be obtained. Judge Holtcamp said it never would do to let the celebration be a failure, that it would be a bad advertisement for the city, and that he would personally stand his share of the expenses.

Doud announced that Col. Keny, commandant at Jefferson Barracks, had given permission for the barracks regulars and the band to participate in the patriotic pageant in the morning. In the parade will be floats depicting various historical events, and formations of marchers expressing the patriotic enthusiasm of the day. In the afternoon there will be speeches and exercises at the foot of Art Hill, and during the evening a display of fireworks.

The fireworks display will be planned with the intention of not only being entertaining but also instructive. Ships are to be blown up, trench warfare, as conducted on the battlefields of Europe, will be shown, and exhibitions of bomb dropping will be given.

The association will give $100 for the best decorated automobile, and the same amount for the best decorated float in the patriotic parade. Floats and automobiles used by the association will be barred from the competition.

ST. LOUISANS DECORATED BY AUSTRIA FOR RELIEF WORK

Order of Red Cross Awarded for Conducting Bazaar Last Fall for War Sufferers.

Three St. Louisans, Frederick Widmann, Otto L. Teichmann and August H. Hoffman, have been awarded the second degree of the Order of the Austro-Hungarian Red Cross (war class), in recognition of their services in managing and conducting the St. Louis War Relief Bazaar, Oct. 25-30, 1915.

The order was created by Emperor Francis Joseph at the beginning of the war, and is a reward for charity and relief work. Dr. John Schwegel, Consul for Austria-Hungary in St. Louis, notified the three men yesterday of the honor conferred upon them.

The decoration is a maltese cross in gold, white and red enamel, in the center of which is the coat of arms of Austria. It is worn on a red and white ribbon.

Widmann was president of the bazaar association. Teichmann was treasurer and Hoffman chairman of the finance committee. About $100,000 was raised, $60,000 of which was sent to Berlin and the remainder to Vienna. The letter conferring the honors was from Francis Salvator, Archduke of Austria, and was mailed May 8. The orders are not expected to be received for some time.

NEW COMMISSIONER QUALIFIES

Walter D. Thompson of 5045 Lindell avenue, resident manager of the United States Casualty Co., today received his commission and qualified as a member of the Police Board. It was understood at headquarters that he would be elected at this afternoon's meeting, vice president of the Board, the position formerly held by Charles P. Williams, whose resignation caused the vacancy which Thompson fills.

The Wrong Tooth

The story of a romance that had its beginning in the office of a young dentist.

By Harold Carter.

HARRY KEENE had gone to Freeport to open his dentist's office because Freeport was a growing town and offered the best opportunities for advancement. For the first couple of months he sat in his office and watched his capital slowly melting away. Then one or two patients drifted in and, being satisfied, recommended others. In the third month he paid his expenses.

He boarded at Mrs. Smith's because he could not afford to set up house-keeping. As a bachelor, he let his fancy roam sometimes, but he had never yet seen the girl who looked like the Mrs. Keene of the future. At 27 he had the distinction of never having been engaged. There had been one or two little episodes, of course, but nothing of a serious nature.

Then, one day, he saw Miss Helen Davis crossing the street, and experienced a shock. She was the prettiest girl imaginable. She was all that he had ever pictured to himself as the ideal of womanhood. He learned her name within an hour after they passed, casting at each other the appraising glance that two young persons of opposite sexes exchange when each finds the other attractive.

She was the daughter of the local street car magnate, and there seemed at present no way of effecting an introduction.

Harry dreamed of Helen all night, and the following day he walked to his office by a long detour in the hope of seeing her. He did not, but on the next day he passed her again, and knew that she recognized him. On several occasions thereafter the young people met. And they passed—that was all. Harry was beginning to grow desperate.

The Wrong Tooth!

It must have been three weeks after the first meeting that he was amazed to find the girl waiting for him when he entered his office.

"O Dr. Keene," she exclaimed, "I am suffering so dreadfully from tooth-ache. I heard of you as a very skillful dentist, and I thought you could pull this tooth for me without hurting very much."

A couple of minutes later she was seated in his chair, looking up at him with eyes expressive of fear and apprehension. Harry's hand shook as he took the forceps in it.

A quick investigation had showed him that the tooth must come out. The gum was inflamed, and there was danger of an ulcerated jaw.

He nerved himself with a strong effort, clasped the points of the forceps about the tooth, and pulled. A jerk, a wrench, and all was over. He was holding a glass of water to her lips. And then came the discovery. It came as a new spasm of pain crossed the girl's face. He saw the look of anger in her eyes. A glance convicted him.

Harry Keene in his agitation had pulled the wrong tooth!

She took the mirror from his helpless hand and saw that the aching one was still there. It was the tooth next to it that he had drawn. She sprang to her feet.

"I'm sorry," he gasped feebly.

"Yes, so am I," she retorted. "I shall tell my father about this and you'll hear from him."

She was gone, leaving him stunned and horrified. He knew that the story would be all over town that afternoon. He would lose his patients, of course. He would have to leave Freeport. Simmons, the rival, old-fashioned practitioner, whom he was displacing, would jeer at him when they met.

And the girl—she would go to Simmons. But that was nothing. The fact remained that he, Harry Keene, who had been graduated second out of his class, had made an absolutely inexcusable blunder, excited by the consciousness of the presence of the girl he loved.

Helen Returns.

THAT afternoon a couple of patients came in; evidently they had not yet heard of the mistake. Harry attended them in misery and sent them away well pleased. On the following morning he expected a letter from Mr. Davis. But none came. And, meeting Simmons in the street, he was rewarded with the same look of contempt and anger in place of the expected malicious triumph.

It was now a case of squaring his accounts and getting out of town before the blow fell. He was too young to be able to face the ridicule that would be his. He took apart his drill, and had just begun to dismantle all his apparatus when a ring came to the door.

Two or three dollars would mean a good deal to Harry just then. Harry waited—waited until Miss Davis entered again.

"Well, I have come back to you," she said petulantly, "because it is a choice between you and Mr. Simmons, and I suppose you are not likely to make the same error again. Why—what have you done with your office?"

"It was just packing up," he answered.

"Packing up? Why?"

"Do you really wish me to see your tooth?" inquired Harry. "I made a terrible mistake. I pulled my best tooth instead of the one I was to pull. But meanwhile—I suppose I may as well extract that."

"Yes," she said, watching him put the chair together in a curious hesitating way. However, she did not hesitate to sit down. Harry felt his hand as steady as a rock.

"I didn't hurt you?" he asked.

"No," said the girl.

"You'll have to come back tomorrow. I suppose I shall have to wait till tomorrow. It is the least I can do."

"Why, were you leaving town?" The girl's eyes widened. "You were leaving town because of me?"

In Freeport to Stay.

HARRY nodded in shame and misery. "Yes, I was going to run away like a coward," he answered.

"You see, I have ruined myself."

"But why?"

"Because a blunder like that is inexcusable."

"But surely one patient doesn't matter." She looked at him with a new understanding. "You mean you thought you thought I would talk about it?"

"I understood your father."

The girl laid her hand decisively on his arm. "Dr. Keene, you took me too seriously," she said. "It was a bad mistake, but you do me an injustice when you think I am going to ruin a man for a thing like that. I'll tell my father, and he'll tell you. So put your things together again and don't be foolish!"

Harry, overwhelmed by the sudden change in his prospects, found himself stammering many foolish reasons for the embarrassment that had caused his blunder, until the girl was sufficed with blushes.

"I think, Dr. Keene, the trouble is you're too impetuous," she said, in pretty confusion.

But on the next day she was willing to listen again, and the result was a warm friendship which culminated six months later, in a mistress in the new home of one of Freeport's citizens. And in his little old-fashioned office, Dr. Simmons smiled cynically to himself.

"Ah, well! I guess I'll have to make the best of it," he said. "The chap has come to stay."

Ada's Stray Lambs

Sandman story of the poor little girl who found two baby sheep, and raised them as pets.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

PART I.

ADA CLARKE lived in a humble home perched on the edge of a mountain crag. Here in the forests she had lived since babyhood, never seeing anything but the birds sailing through the sky, or watching the smoke of the long trains that crawled through the valley below.

Now Ada was a big girl of 10, and she thought she would like to see something of the world. Once in the summer she had walked miles down the steep path to sell a few berries at the hotel, and the sights she saw were ever with her in her dreams. She with her bare feet and sunbonnet stood speechless watching what seemed to her eyes to be a fairyland—for there in a huge room with a shining floor were crowds dancing to the most exquisite music. Ada, poor little Ada, thought it was heaven on which she was looking. For she never imagined that earth held such a beautiful scene.

One tall, handsome boy led the dancers and to the girl crouching in the shadow of the window he seemed a Prince. To the mountain girl climbing the rocks that afternoon there came visions—the strains of music lingered in her soul with delight.

ONE cold spring day Ada toiled up the mountain alone. The snow began to fall and as she neared the ground was white. A sharp wind swept up the valley. Far off at her feet she could see the great stone mansion of the city millionaire, Mr. Beverly, in the midst of its groves and gardens. Then suddenly at her feet came a faint sound of "Baa, baa."

Ada looked over the corner of the fence. There lay a sheep exhausted, while over it stood shivering two tiny lambs.

"You poor little darlings!" exclaimed the girl as she dropped on her knees. "Your mother is dying and you will die, too, here in the snow and wind."

Wrapping the tiny creatures up in the heavy shawl she wore over her head, Ada struggled up the mountain, the exercise keeping her warm. Reaching home, she showed her mother the little lambs that soon cried around the fire. They drank eagerly the warm milk from a bottle Ada fixed, then lay down on some old blankets in a corner and went to sleep.

"Mother," said Ada that night after she had gone to bed, "I have a plan. These are fine sheep, and if I raise them, I will keep them for pets."

"But how about feeding them?" asked the mother. "We haven't much milk now."

"I will give them my share while they are small," replied Ada. "Just by June they can eat grass. Maybe if I pick a lot of berries and help Mr. Edmonds gather in his hay he will give me enough to carry them through the winter of next year. Anyway, I mean to keep the poor, little things as long as I have a bit of milk."

The weather grew warmer and the grass came out. Every day the lambs seemed to look prettier, but the strange thing about them was that their wool was curly. They did not look like any other sheep that the family had ever seen, but their wool was glossy and so soft that Ada thought it the most beautiful she had ever seen.

One day the father fell and broke his leg. Money ran out and there was little coming in, as Ada alone could work.

"I will have to sell my two sheep," she said to herself with tears in her eyes. "The postmaster told me that

"Locked" for Leaving Cardinals, Says He Has Quit Club and a $6000 Contract

Veteran Southpaw, Who Has Averaged .500 for Ten Years, Refuses to Discuss Case Beyond Stating That He Is Going Home to Higginsport.

By W. J. O'Connor.

HARRY F. SALLIE, whose "official" age will be 31 on Feb. 3 next, and who is the only survivor of the John McCloskey regime at Robison Field, has decided to quit baseball and to do it quietly. He abandons a $6000 contract and offers no explanation. That makes his case interesting and unusual.

Yesterday, Sallie conferred for an hour with Manager Higgins and President Britton. Prior to the star-chamber session Britton announced that Sallie would be reinstated upon the payment of a fine, besides losing his salary for the time he was away from the club. Sallie, however, declined the offer. "I'm through with baseball and I'm going home," said Sallie today. "I expect to leave for Higginsport in a very short time and it will not do me any good to talk. I believe in leaving things unsaid in such cases as these. Whatever my reasons are for quitting, no one will ever know but Britton and Higgins. At least not unless Britton and Higgins care to talk. I don't feel, however, that I'm doing anybody any wrong. It's a privilege to quit and I'm taking advantage of it."

When asked whether he would be interested in an offer from some other club, Sallie replied that he could not answer such questions. He also refused to discuss what club, if any, he would prefer to go to.

Sallie, of the Old Guard.

There are very few pitchers in the National League who have been at it longer than Sallie. Mathewson, Brown, Rucker, Ames and Babe Adams are the only seniors of Sallie's age who are now anywhere near successful. Sallie came to the Cardinals in 1903, about the time that John McCloskey was assembling many stars who were being sold by the late Stanley Robison, because of financial pressure. In the years immediately preceding Sallie's arrival, the Cardinals disposed of such stars as Miner Brown, Babe Adams, Eddie Karger, Jack Murray and others. Roger Bresnahan, who was in the Cardinals' first season of hard work, Sal officiated in 233 innings, but he tired of the yoke in 1910 and shattered a few warning rules, causing his frequent suspension. In 1911 he put his right foot forward and was suspended for a year. He won 15 games and lost nine for a winning percentage of .625. He never has done as well, before or since. However, Sal has been one of the great pitchers of the game. Throughout his servitude under Bresnahan and Higgins he has been used liberally as a relief pitcher and much of his best work was done in this capacity, although his record doesn't show such results.

Sal's Grand Average Is .500.

In all, since joining the Cardinals, he has won 107 games and lost a like number. His average is .500. He has, therefore, for a club which has spent most of its checkered career in second division, a large portion of its time in first place. In 1910, when he was in the Graw, Tinker and Stallings should be bidding high for the Higginsport Huckleberry. Britton still has hopes of retaining Sallie, but the elongated pitcher yesterday refused for an advance of $2000 to sign his suit for which the club must pay $25. He plans to leave within a week for his home in Ohio, where he owns a farm. Sal also has a nice bank account. He's not in need of any benefits.

Dillon to Make Hurry-Up

Trip for Bout at Dewey

NEW YORK, June 30.

JACK DILLON, who gave Frank

Moran 35 pounds and a trimming bare last night, must make a quick trip to Dewey, Ok.,

where he has an engagement to fight Jim Flynn 15 rounds on July 4.

The bout takes place in the morning, so that Dillon, in order to get even one day rest before his contest, will have to arrive in Dewey

Monday, July 3.

The trip from New York will occupy about 48 hours. Dillon expects to depart tonight for the Southwest. The men have fought before, but never over a 15-round route. There is a suspicion that the bout will not go that far this time.

same punch that finally won Jim Coffey down. The crowd cheered Dillon for his great work and his made Moran smile.

Moran was tired in the sixth and seventh rounds. His condition did not seem to be nearly as good as Dillon's. Moran kept coming in all the time, and he took every

Dillon punch without wincing with the exception of the Indian. He waited for a chance to drive home a telling punch.

Dillon waited for the chance to reach and weigh. Dillon made a great showing. He won the crowd over the moment his punches began to reach Moran.

Moran was in a bad way throughout the fight. He did not seem any too good.

Gen. Doubleday, One of Its Citizens, First Systematized National Game.

Baseball's 79th Birthday Feted at Cooperstown

NEW YORK, June 30.—The origin of baseball is as much a matter of dispute as the Darwinian theory of evolution. Men have died in the conviction that the game grew out of the American "old cat." Others have clung to the notion that it came from the English "rounders."

Cooperstown, N. Y., celebrated yesterday the belief that baseball was born within its limits 79 years ago. Its father having been Abner Doubleday, then a school boy, later a General at Gettysburg. And Cooperstown is justified by an official verdict rendered in 1907 by a commission including Nick Young of the National League fame among its members.

Credit goes to Doubleday because he brought order out of confusion and started the national pastime in the way which makes it today the most highly scientific of field games. He substituted for throwing the ball at a target the present method of putting a batman out. That he was allowed to claim as a founder is nothing against his claim as a founder. He was one of the 13 in the line on the chance that all the notes would then be stopped.

Perhaps nobody would be more surprised than Gen. Doubleday at the developments which have followed his first sketch of baseball. The tricks and manners of the game, the various varieties of play, the pitcher's curves and the treasure poured into it could be called back. The establishment on the diamond has grown today worthy of its strategic founder and it might well insure Cooperstown a still living place on the map of popularity. The "leather-stocking" sales and author were to pass into oblivion.

There was a delay between the preliminary and the final because only one pair of gloves had been thrust in the ring. Matt

COBB TO ASK BAN JOHNSON TO GAG LOCAL FANS

Georgian Complains of "Outrageous Abuse" Here, and Demands Drastic Measures.

Ty Cobb resents the treatment he received from local fans in the six-game series recently played at Sportsman's Park. The following story, sent out of this city by E. A. Batchelor, sporting editor of the Detroit Free Press, is self-explanatory:

So thoroughly incensed was Ty Cobb because of a result of the outrageous abuse to which he was subjected by local fans during the series just closed that he intends to bring the matter officially to the attention of President Johnson of the American League. Johnson, it will be remembered, promised at the time of the Tigers' famous strike four years ago that the ballplayer would be protected from personal abuse. The chief executive of the circuit then pledged himself to see that the managements of the several clubs ejected all insulting patrons from the parks in St. Louis.

This promise is not being kept, for Cobb has called every vile name that the bleacherites could think of all through the series. Most of the insults came from the occupants of the grand stands, but there were also a few rowdies in the grand stands and pavilions who contributed to the foulness. Today the bleacherites were whistling to Ty and calling him a scoundrel, a scoundrel, and he was just about wild before the game ended.

Holds Management Responsible.

Cobb holds the home management responsible for the conditions that prevail here.

"The managements have succeeded in practically eliminating rowdiness from the field so far as the American League is concerned," said Cobb this morning. "Now let them go to work and stamp it out in the stands. It can be done without the loss of a single patron whose presence is worth having. The athletes are willing to act like gentlemen and it is time the fans did likewise. A player is willing to give up a reasonable amount of criticism when he makes a mistake or falls down in a pinch, but he is going to stand for continual abuse, including the calling of names that would almost stir murder."

Would Drive Fans Away.

"If the managements do not force the rowdies to behave themselves in the stands, they are going to drive away most of the decent patrons. The average man likes

Some Occasion for Rise in Temperature.

YES, Bo, it's hot in St. Louis. It is likewise warm in Timbuctoo, Y Hades and Vera Cruz. But for the real torrid stuff, you'll find it right under the collar of Barney Dreyfuss of the Pirates. It's white hot there, men.

But then you must not hold it against Barney. In his predicament we would probably be as cool as a blast furnace. For Barney is still suffering from the loss of George Sisler and that's SOME loss, as matters have turned out.

Barney is now writing a book on the subject, not being familiar with the well-known axiom that gentlemen with axes to grind who take literature seriously only in showing up themselves.

Barney Out $400,000.

In a way we are FOR Barney. He has lost the greatest young baseball asset that has been picked up in years. His loss represents, in cold cash, something in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Fausch, Bo, and do not give us the ha, ha, for this statement. The laugh may be on you.

As we reason the matter out, Sisler has a cash sale price of $250,000. Barney Dreyfuss declares that Sisler would mean a pennant or near it if Pittsburgh owned him; and a pennant to the Pirates would surely be worth $100,000—probably much more.

Even if he helped the Pirates into first division, it would mean $100,000 to the club in revived interest on the part of Smoky City fans.

Then Sisler is a young man; his career will last not less than 10 years. His value to the club in playing ability and drawing power at the gate, irrespective of his ability to put the team into the running, would mean at least 10 times $25,000, or $250,000.

So there, Bo, you can fight out the loss of Sisler has cost Pittsburgh's baseball magnate $400,000. And don't laugh, because these are bed rock baseball facts.

Browns Dr. to Rickey $100,000.

CAN you wonder at the number of calories being hourly developed under the neck linen of Mr. Dreyfuss?

And right here we want to say that the St. Louis Browns owe Branch Rickey a life job with the club and not at any distance. No other man than Rickey could have induced Sisler to join the Browns. But for Branch, George would have played with Pittsburgh or nowhere, as we set it.

Just how much, Bo, would you give a man who, with one turn of his hand had dug up nearly half a million dollars and turned the sum over, gratis, to you?

How Good Is Sisler?

THERE are still fans who are skeptical about this young fair play and when he goes to a game and hears the performers abused continually, it sickens him and he will hesitate before going again. This is particularly true of the women fans, who are a very numerous class and getting more numerous all the time in cities where the game is properly conducted.

St. Louis, for instance, the fans know how to behave themselves, dealing fairly with both home and visiting players, and a large number of women are to be found in the grand stands every afternoon. Other towns could build up the same large class of feminine enthusiasts if the management would be equally drastic in curbing muckerrism. Conditions in St. Louis are worse than anywhere else, I believe, and it is time that something was done to educate the people in decency and fair play.

JAP TENNIS STARS NOT DUE HERE TILL SUNDAY

According to a telegram received at Triple A today, Kikumaru and Miyakami, the Japanese tennis stars, will not appear here in the Central States tournament but will take part in the sectional doubles tourney.

The Oriental players are expected in Kansas City today and will hardly be here before Sunday.

Several title aspirants are resting easier as a result of the announcement that the visiting players must expect to compete in the Central States event.

C. A. C. AFTER WOMEN'S TITLE PADDLING EVENTS

The Columbian A. C. has announced its willingness to stage either the half-mile or mile national A. A. U. outdoor swimming championship event and has notified the local officials of its intention. T. B. Watts Jr. last week received a letter from Secretary Ruben of the national body asking him if any local club wished to stage any of the events.

Watts is expected from the officials in New York whether or not the C. A. C. has selected the event. The national body named the dates.

Lynn to Meet Atkins.

"Tiger" Lynn of Chicago and Jack Atkins of New Orleans have been matched to box 12 rounds at 135 pounds in the future bout of the downtown show at the Future City A. C. tonight. The remainder of the card is as follows: Benny Hall vs. C. Phillips; Jack McNally vs. Scott and a battle royal.

ST. LOUIS WOMEN GOLFERS TO TRY FOR U. S. HONORS

Delegation Will Represent This City at Both Western and National Tourneys.

Present indications are that an unusually large delegation of St. Louis players will compete in the annual Women's Western golf championship tournament, which will be held at the Belmont Springs Country Club, Waverly, Mass., from Oct. 2 to 7.

Miss Laurie Kaiser, who won the State title by defeating Mrs. A. N. Edwards in Kansas City, last week must be considered St. Louis' real hope. Miss Kaiser is at present out of the city, but before leaving told friends that she would certainly be a candidate for the Western championship and would in all probability enter the National.

Last year Miss Kaiser entered the Western from Flossmoor, Chicago, and was eliminated in the first round by Mrs. D. R. Calhoun, who ultimately was the runner-up to Mrs. Harry Hammond of Indianapolis. Miss Kaiser is a former champion of St. Louis and Kansas City, having defeated the champions of those cities, while she won the Chicago title in 1915.

Other Ladies to Enter.

Mrs. A. N. Edwards, who won the local title last season, Mrs. Sterling Edmunds, Mrs. G. H. Steadman, and Mrs. D. R. Calhoun are other probable contenders at Grand Rapids. Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Steadman are two unusually strong players. Mrs. Steadman, two years ago, was an entrant in the national championship in Philadelphia, and after winning her first round match, forfeited her second in 32, a new mark. She came in in 38, setting a new record for the Minnesota Union.

Wilfred Reid of Wilmington, Del., was second to Evans with 142. J. C. Worthington, the only English entrant, and all the other amateurs were down the line. Walter Hagen, winner of the title two years ago, took a stroke yesterday.

Sixty players remained in the final rounds started this morning.

WEAKER and WEAKER At Edwardsport, Ind., Mrs. Frank Hulen said: "I had had good health up until after the birth of my first child." Mrs. Hulen then describes how she was not given proper care, thought she could get up and go about her work in five days, but from that time on she grew weaker and weaker, suffering from nervous agony, was given medicine that soothed the pain, but the pain soon came again. "I was a wreck," says Mrs. Hulen, "my hands thought I'd die... my mother insisted that I take CARDUI. In a short while after I took it my nerves were relieved and I could sleep and rest better... in four weeks I was well... I will praise CARDUI as long as I live for I can truthfully say it saved my life." Try CARDUI. Your druggist sells it.

$50,000 Ty Cobb "Comes Back" Nuxated Iron Makes Him Winner—Greatest Baseball

After all time says Nuxated Iron filled him with renewed life after he was weakened and all run down. Supplies that "stay there" strength and vim that makes men of mark and women of power.

Well known physician who has studied widely in this country and Europe, explains why taking iron enabled Ty Cobb to "come back" so quickly and show such tremendous strength and endurance. Says ordinarily nuxated iron will often increase the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent in two week's time.

Mr. Ty Cobb, N. Y.—When interviewed at his apartment at Bretton Hall, Ty Cobb said: "Hundreds of people write to me to know how I train and what I do to keep up that force and vitality which enables me to play practically every day of the entire baseball season. They wonder why I can play a better game today than when I was younger."

"The secret is keeping up the supply of iron in my blood—exactly what every man can do if they will."

At the beginning of the present season I was nervous and run down from a attack of tonsillitis, but soon I began to gain strength and vim. He is hitting up the old game. The secret was iron—Nuxated Iron. I have been taking it for two years. Now I'm worth $50,000 a year to any baseball team, yet without plenty of iron in my blood I wouldn't be worth one cent. Nuxated Iron supplies that "stay there" strength and vim that makes men of mark and women of power. Cobb's case is this one of hundreds which I could cite from my personal experience, which proves the astonishing power of iron to restore strength and vim to men and women who are run down and nervous.

Nuxated Iron has filled me with renewed life and vigor. I play a better game to-day than when I was younger.

Ty Cobb

As a young man in fact, a young man he really was notwithstanding his age. The secret, he said, was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At so he was in bad health. At 30 he was a weak and nearly all in. Now at 50 a man of strength and vim, his face beaming with life. As I have iron in the veins. If people...

Why Bill Johnson Is Happy

BILL JOHNSON is happy. Bill Johnson is gay. He'll smile with you; laugh with you; sing any day. He'll grin at your story and swap you a tale. He never acts soggy, disgruntled or stale. He's tired at night when he tumbles in bed. His mind goes to sleep free from worry and dread. You don't hear him kicking; you don't see him fret. The reason is this-Bill is never in debt. The man who can look 'em all square in the eye and know his account with each one isn't shy, can feel he's the equal of all he may meet and he is the fellow who finds life a treat.

Perfect Fit

YES, grandma. I am to be married during the bright and gladome spring. "But, my dear," said grandma, earnestly, "you are very young. Do you feel that you are fitted for married life?" "I am being fitted now, grandma," explained the prospective bride sweetly. "Seventeen gowns!"

She Could Stand It No Longer

DESPAIR flashed from her eyes. Her hair was in wild disorder. She was in a terrible dilemma. She looked like a dreadfully injured and desperate woman. With anger and indignation reaching to a dreadful height, she could stand it no longer. "Merciless one-cruel one-I have stood it long enough. I was proud of you, of your beauty-your grace-proud of my possession of you-prod of the envy of my friends-I gloried in the enemies I made through my possession. Ah, but you are small-small! How I have been deceived. You have ruined my standing in society-tortured me until I screamed in the agony of my soul, and still I loved you! Yes, loved you through it all. But now-ah! Yes, now-will I end it all! I cast you from me forever!" And with that she ripped off her right shoe and flung it into the fire. The agony was over and the tragedy ended!

Applying the Text.

HOW often have I told you not to ask for a second helping of dessert?" said Tommie's mother. "I was only doin' what they told me to in Sunday school," replied the boy. "Why, Johnny? What do you mean?" "Well, the Golden Text today was 'Ask and you shall receive,' and I'm askin', ain't I?"

Getting Better Every Day.

Fair Enough.

PAT went to a druggist to get an empty bottle. Selecting one that answered his purpose, he asked: "How much?" "Well," said the clerk, "if you want the empty bottle it'll be 1 cent, but if you have something put in it we won't charge anything for the bottle." "Sure, that's fair enough," observed Pat. "Put in a cork."

Definition of Leisure.

A POLITICIAN was talking at a dinner in New York about the American business man. "It is his hard and endless work," he said, "which puts the American business man at the very top of the tree. He doesn't know the meaning of the word leisure."
